Safe Harbor

New Pass Christian Harbor Master Willie Davis believes the harbor needs "a change," including tighter security and better maintenance.

New Pass harbor master, a former policeman, sees a new day dawning

BY SHANNON JENKINS
Staff Writer

Pass Christian's new harbor master applied for the position because he wanted to make a difference.

"I believed the harbor needed a change," Willie Davis said. "There needed to be organization."

The 37-year-old, who has served on both the Gulfport and Pass Christian police departments, said the harbor had problems ranging from parking to property destruction. The maintenance and security departments, he said, were also in need of structure.

Since beginning his duties as harbor master on Oct. 13, Davis has initiated several new practices and guidelines to mold a new harbor; however, he plans to apply the harbor's existing guidelines as well.

"The rules aren't changing," he said. "They're just going to be enforced."

He gave harbor personnel paperwork so they would have guidelines and means of verifying their work.

Davis also established briefing sheets to keep everyone informed of what was happening in the harbor. Monthly meetings of all personnel will aid in this effort to unify harbor operations.

In the maintenance department, which consists of one person, Davis addressed a problem that caused the harbor money and time.

"Maintenance had no tools," he said. "He was running all over trying to find stuff."

If the maintenance man, Davis used as an example, needed two bolts, he would have to receive permission from the harbor master to purchase the bolts, initiate paperwork and then buy the bolts from a hardware store. Davis said this wasted time and money, when the department could have most of what it needed in stock.

He has since ordered tools and supplies. Davis also created paperwork for the department to account for money being spent on maintenance and tools.

Davis has a bit more in store for the security department, which currently employs three

Two die in separate crashes

ECHO STAFF REPORT

Two separate crashes claimed two lives last week on Hancock County roads in two days' time.

On Friday, a Lamar County man was killed near Standard when his truck collided with a Kubota tractor on Hwy. 603.

According to officers of the Mississippi Highway Patrol, 40-year-old Purvis resident Frank Dyar was northbound on Hwy. 603 when his 2000 Ford truck hit the back end of a farm tractor operated by Hayward V. Ladner.

Dyar's vehicle slipped onto its side and went into the southbound lane, where it was hit by another truck driven by Rufus

B. Rhinner, of Kiln.

Dyar was pronounced dead at the scene. Ladner, a 76-year-old Perkinston resident, was uninjured. Rhinner, 42, was transported to Hancock Medical Center, where he was listed in stable condition Friday.

A former New Orleans Police officer was charged with the sale of a controlled substance in Bay St. Louis, according to Hancock County Sheriff Steve Garber.

Hancock Sheriff's Narcotic's Division director Major Matt Karl said, "We received word a subject was selling drugs from a parking lot at a Bay St. Louis business. An undercover officer observed the area for four weeks."

"A set up to buy was made. On Wednesday afternoon, David C. Huber, 1 Meadows Blvd., Apt. 138, Slidell, LA, was arrested and charged for the alleged sale of

Archaeological exploration is topic at Bay library branch

THE SEA COAST ECHO

C. Baxter Mann, coauthor of Fisherfolk, Farmers and Frenchmen, will present a program on Archaeological Exploration along the Mississippi Gulf Coast on Tuesday, October 28, at 7 p.m. in the Seal Room of the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library on Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis. An artifact identification program will also be held on Tuesday from 6-9 p.m. An artifact exhibit is currently on display at the Bay Library through October 31.

The program is part of the events scheduled in Hancock County in observance of Mississippi Archaeology Month, a statewide effort to inform the public about the role archaeology plays in understanding the history of many groups of people who have lived in the state. Mississippi has a diverse history and a prehistory stretching back hundreds of years.

Mississippi Archaeology Month brings together people of all ages and backgrounds to learn more about the archaeology of our state.

The Mississippi Archaeological Association is an organization of professional archaeologists and lay people actively involved with archaeology and archaeological preservation, uniting in a common effort to understand the prehistory and history of Mississippi and the surrounding region.

More information on these programs should contact Edmond Boudreaux at 228-806-1570, lecajun@bell-south.net or Jamie Elston or Mary Perkins, Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library, 228-467-5282.

Halloween highlights library's story hour

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Halloween will be the theme for the preschool story hour at the Waveland Public Library on Tuesday, October 28, at 10:30 a.m. Karen Cotton, branch manager, will read Mouse's Halloween, Corduroy's Best Halloween Ever, Mouse's First Halloween and Halloween Day. Children will make their own paper Halloween masks.

Halloween will be the theme for the preschool children's story hour at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library on Wednesday, October 29 at 10:30 a.m. Susan Dalgre, program coordinator, will read Timid Ghosts, When the Goblins Came Knocking, Trick or Treat, Countdown and Boo to a Goose. Children should dress up in their Halloween costume for a party and trick or treating in the library.

Halloween will be highlighted at the preschool story hour at the Kiln Library on Thursday, October 30, at 10:30 a.m. Five Little Pumpkins, Mouse's First Halloween and Night-Time Numbers are the books to be read during the program. Children will make a bat craft and sing a song.

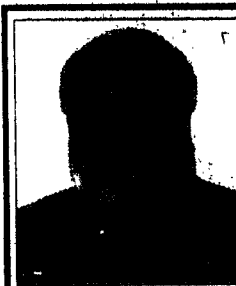

Weekly story hours are held September through May. Programs last approximately one half hour, depending upon subject matter and planned activity.

Programs and activities are designed for pre-school age children three to five years old who are not part of a nursery or pre-school group.

For individual branch story hour information, contact Jamie Elston, Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library, 467-5282; Sandra Ladner, Kiln Public Library, 255-1724; or Karen Cotton, Waveland Public Library, 467-9240.

Forum to be broadcast

Local radio station WQKZ, 103.5 FM will broadcast a recording of the Hancock County Journalist's Association Political Forum on Sunday evening at 8 p.m. and again next Sunday at 8 p.m. The forum was held on Wednesday evening at the Post 77 American Legion Hall in Waveland.

Plato's 'The Apology' to be discussed for Great Books

The Apology by Plato will be the subject of discussion at the Great Books Discussion Group meeting on Wednesday, October 29, at 7 p.m. in the Seal Room of the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library.

The selection is from An Introduction to Great Books, First Series. Several copies are available for checkout at Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library.

The Great Books discussion group, sponsored by the Hancock County Library System, has been meeting and discussing books since March, 1990. During that time, they read more than 345 titles from great books (Plato, Hobbes, Locke deTocqueville), Mississippi fiction, play readings and 20 philosophical questions. The group meets every other Wednesday at 7 p.m.

The Great Books Foundation was established in 1947 by University of Chicago Chancellor Robert Maynard Hutchins. Its mission is to provide people of all ages, backgrounds and walks of life with the opportunity to read, discuss and learn from outstanding works of literature.

Today, more than 20,000 adults are members of Great Books discussion groups, and nearly one million students participate in Junior Great Books groups for grades kindergarten through 12.

Anyone is welcome to attend the meetings. The only requirement is that you read the selection before the meeting. For information, call Jamie Elston at 467-5282.

Madeline Prendergast Justice Court Judge Place 2

Having 23 years collective experience in the Judicial System of the State of Mississippi, I am extremely qualified and have a willingness to serve the people of Hancock County as their Justice Court Judge.

My career started as a Deputy Chancery Court Clerk. I spent 9 years in the Chancery Court Clerk's office of Hancock County. In 1984, I became employed with the City of Bay Saint Louis. The past 14 years of my employment have been in the position of City Court Clerk.

In my position as Court Clerk I have been required to take Continuing Education Classes twice yearly, given by the Mississippi Judicial College. These classes have kept me current on new and changing laws of our state. With my weekly court room experience, I've had the opportunity to stay in close contact with many people in Hancock County. I am very aware of how important it is to give consideration to all parties on any legal issue.

I would greatly appreciate the opportunity to serve the people of Hancock County. So please cast your vote for me in the November election.

Resident comes home to find burglars in house

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

A Heron Street resident returned home earlier this month to hear burglars in the premises, according to Sheriff Steve Garber.

"Apparently they slipped out the back door, while the homeowner notified the sheriff's office. Lt. Danny Gikerson, Deputy Tina Ladner and Reserve Deputy Sarah Underwood arrived at the scene within a few minutes," Investigator Matt Barnett said.

"As deputies tried to enter the front door, they found it jammed. Inside the residence everything was ransacked and no one could be found. Deputies immediately checked the perimeter of the home's area and found a suspect," Barnett reported.

Barnett continued, "Upon questioning the suspect, deputies found the suspect had a footprint that matched a footprint in the yard. As the suspect pulled a package of cigarettes out of his pocket, a ring fell out and other jewelry items were found and identified by the victim."

David Lynn Thompson, 17, Mediterranean Street, was taken into custody and charged with burglary of a residence. His bond was set at $5,000," according to Barnett.

"Other arrests are expected. We have found other merchandise in addition to the jewelry at another residence. The investigation continues as there are still items reported as missing," Barnett who is the lead investigator said.

Barnett offered high praises for the road deputies for their good job and quick response to the burglary and arrest of a suspect.

Waveland Kmart makes special offer to area artists, crafters

Waveland Kmart is offering a special opportunity for local arts and crafters to sell their works on Saturdays and Sundays through November 23, according to Steve Howard manager. Only original arts and crafts may be sold, or displayed. Space will be available for a small fee on the front sidewalk and if needed, expanded to parking lot. A 10 ft. space $10; 20 ft., $20; and 30 ft., $30 per Saturday, or Sunday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., provide your own table and shelter.

This is an opportunity for locals to sell their holiday arts and crafts. There will be no flea market merchandise, Howard said. Visit Waveland Kmart for further details.

...because government is about people

Dear Friends,

For eight years I have served you in the Mississippi House of Representatives. I have always sought to bring dignity and integrity to the office I hold, and I am proud of the progress we have made towards improving education and securing jobs in South Mississippi.

My goal for the next legislative session is to make health insurance more affordable for working Mississippians. I respectfully ask you to look at my record of service and prayerfully consider to allow me the honor of continuing to represent your interests in your capitol.

Sincerely,

Dirk Dedeaux

Everyone is Welcome!

We Can Depend On Dirk Dedeaux to Stand Up For Working Families

Health Care- In the 2004 legislative session Dirk Dedeaux will fight for affordable health insurance for working Mississippians.

Jobs- Dirk Dedeaux coordinated efforts in the House of Representatives to pass legislation that brought jobs to Stennis Space Center and South Mississippi. His aggressive approach to economic development has earned Dirk the endorsement of the South Central Labor Council.

Values- Dirk Dedeaux believes in traditional family values. He has helped fight for tougher drug laws to protect our families and communities. Dirk has earned the endorsement of the Mississippi Right to Life Committee for his consistent stand against abortion.

Education- Dirk Dedeaux stood by his commitment to put the education of our children first. Computers are now in every classroom, student test scores are rising and our teachers are earning a better living. Because of his progressive support for education, Dirk has earned the endorsement of the Mississippi Association of Educators.

Second Amendment Rights- Dirk Dedeaux has earned the endorsement of the National Rifle Association because he firmly believes that the Constitutional right to keep and bear arms must be protected.

Several local events honor late historian

Did you remember to set your clocks back an hour last night?

I am sure there will be folks this morning arriving an hour early for church services, as there are usually those arriving an hour later in the Spring.

We now have longer mornings and shorter evenings, and myself, I like the longer evenings.

This is the time of year I hate as the days continue to get shorter.

There is a time and place for everything related to nature, and we have no control over those elements.

This past week in Hancock County, there were several big ceremonies in memory of our late resident Dr. Stephen Ambrose, world renowned author and historian.

On Monday, Interstate 10 from the Mississippi/Louisiana State line to Highway 43/603, was named the Stephen M. Ambrose Memorial Highway. The highway dedication took place at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis.

On Tuesday afternoon, the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library was designated a National Literary Landmark in honor of Dr. Stephen M. Ambrose.

Dr. Ambrose a frequent user of the Bay St. Louis Library, used the facility to research his book "Nothing Like It In The World: The Men Who Built the Transcontinental Railroad, 1863-1869."

The Library being named a Literary Landmark in honor of Dr. Ambrose, is only of 60 sites in the nation to be designated a literary landmark by the Friends of Libraries USA.

Leo Seal Jr., at the highway dedication ceremonies said, "Ambrose could have lived anywhere, but he chose Bay St. Louis as his home and final resting place."

Seal, also recalled how Ambrose was and ordinary citizen who rode his bicycle down Bay St., Louis' city streets.

Both events drew large crowds attended by Mrs. Stephen (Moir) Ambrose and family members in addition to county and county officials and many, many friends.

Dr. Ambrose in his teachings a literary work touched so many people of the nation and the world. He really touched thousands Veterans too, as he was instrumental and the pusher for the National D-day Museum in New Orleans.

Dr. Ambrose will be long remembered for his works for many, many generations to come.

Spreading freedom

After World War II, America helped our former enemies rebuild their nations. Our primary goal was to protect ourselves.

A strong Western Europe and strong Japan were needed in the Cold War to offset the growing communist threat.

The principle is the same today as the U.S. Senate approves President Bush's $87 billion request to stabilize Afghanistan and Iraq. America's most potent weapon and best security policy is our commitment to freedom's spread. Once people are free, they no longer threaten freedom.

Today the threat isn't global communism but global terrorism and the nations that breed and feed terrorists. British Prime Minister Tony Blair perhaps put it best.

He said, "I believe the security threat of the 21st Century is not countries waging conventional war ... in today's interdependent world the threat is chaos. It is fanaticism defeating reason. Suppose the terrorists repeated September 11th or worse. Suppose they got hold of a chemical, biological or nuclear dirty bomb ... what then? There is no easy choice."

The military actions in

FROM THE SENATE

By U.S. Senator
Trent Lott

Iraq and Afghanistan were certainly not easy choices, but they had to be undertaken for America's safety and that of our allies. Both states were terrorist states, but no longer.

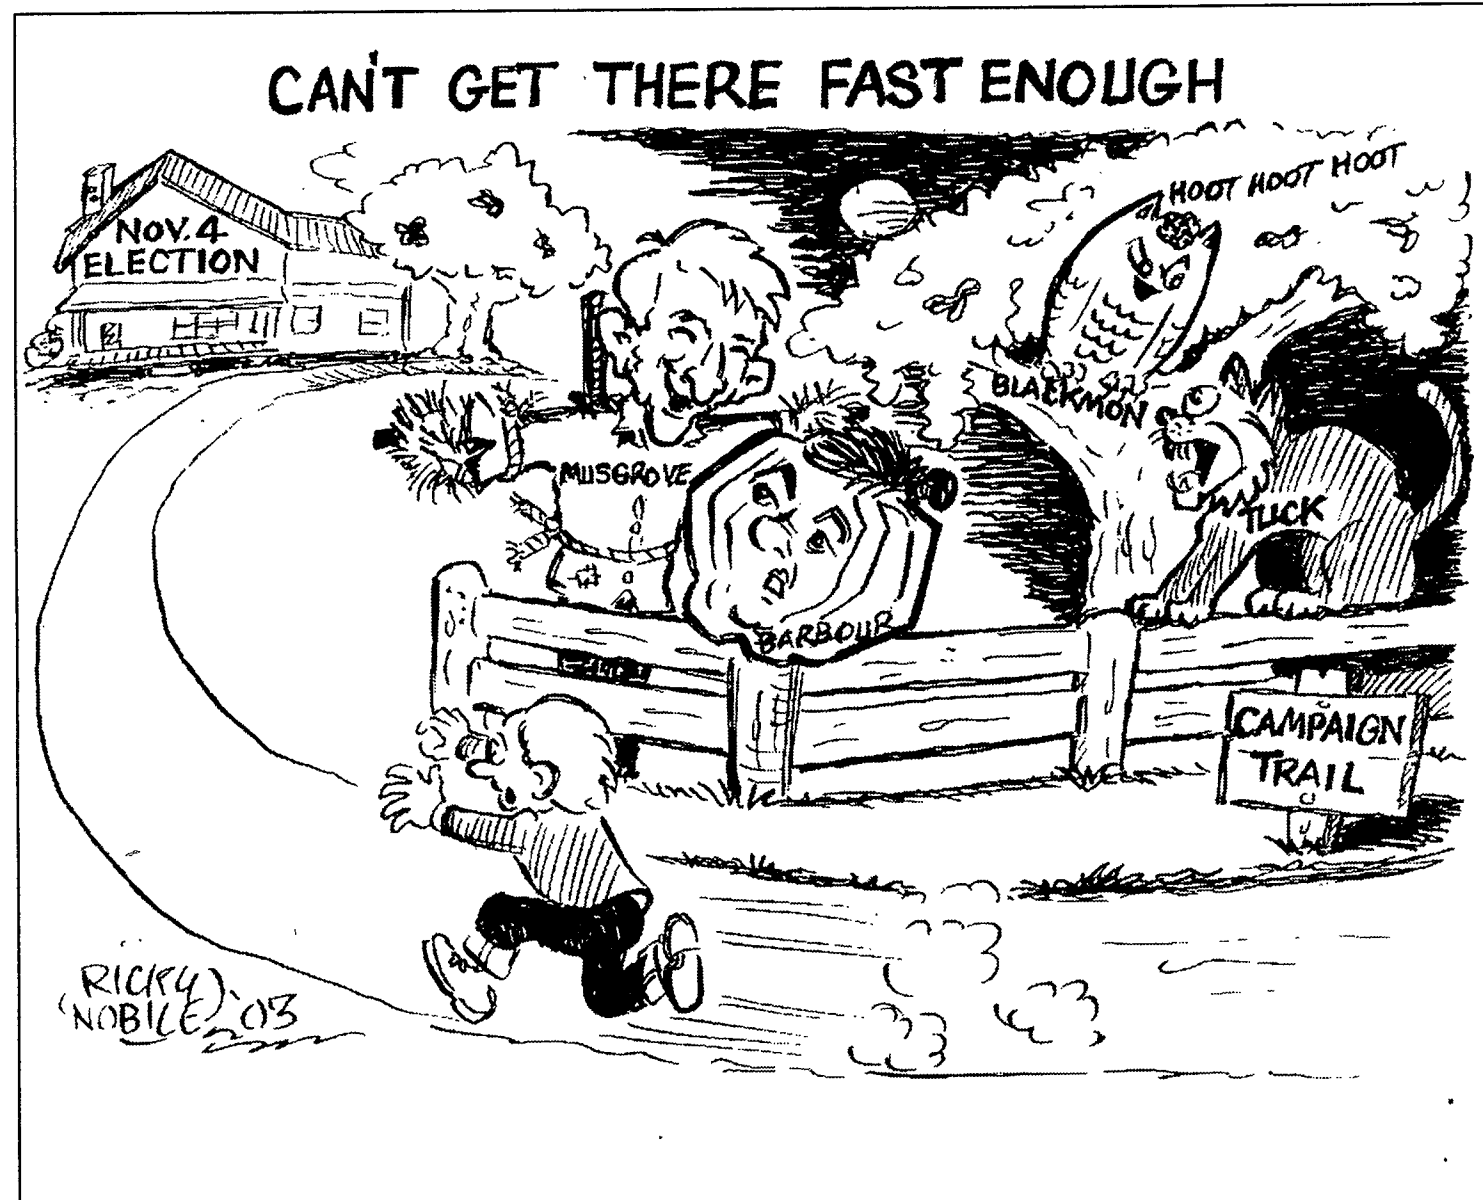

Like the Germans and the Japanese 60 years ago, these people now have a chance to fundamentally change the nature of their countries — to go from a muted, shackled existence to one of real personal opportunity and national economic success.

Yet, we must stand by them. Millions of Iraqis and Afghans are watching the debate in America, hoping we will follow up our military victories with a commitment to securing peace and freedom.

How safe are our kids?

On Monday, Oct. 6, our kids had a substitute bus driver. The bus driver passed up our kids bus stop on Rocky Hill Dedeaux Rd.

The kids were telling him that he passed up the stop but he preceded with the route and told them that he wasn't turning around.

He turned down Rue LaTarte and proceeded to the end and turned around and come back out to Rocky Hill Dedeaux Rd and stopped. He had a woman behind him that couldn't get by, so she went to the bus to find out what was wrong, and he told her that he had some kids on the bus that he missed their stop, she told him that she was going that way so she would drop them off!

He told the kids to get their stuff and get in the car with this woman who they didn't know. He did not get any information from this woman at all.

Thank God the woman did what she said she was going to do! I hate to think about what would've happened if she didn't! How could this bus driver let our kids get off of this bus with a stranger?!!

We have taken all of the necessary steps to rectify this situation to no avail! We have talked to Tim Farve who is over the Transportation Department, we've talked to Eddie Danzey at the school board office and another parent talked to Mike Ladner our current School Superintendent.

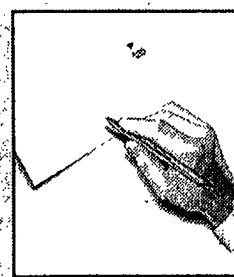

All of these people in one way or another told us that they were going to take care of the situation and more or less blamed it on us as parents or on our kids for not knowing any better. Our kids do know better, us as parents have taught our kids about strangers, but we have also taught them to listen to their teachers and bus drivers.

We as parents put so

much trust in our school systems regarding the safety of our kids, when you check your child out of school you have to have a pictured ID and be on their check out list in order to get them, you would think that this safety feature would carry over to the school buses! To ask them if it does, they would say yes, it does carry over, but obviously it doesn't!

We all know the consequences that our kids and us as parents would've went through if our kids wouldn't have come home! Eddie Danzey said that he is only human and that he is entitled to make a mistake! That's true to a certain point, but I think that this situation is a little bit more than just a simple mistake and deserves more than just a slap on the wrist as punishment!

We currently have a meeting on the agenda for the next school board meeting, which is Thursday, November 6th at the school board office.

We thought that we should let all of the parents of Hancock County know exactly what went on and let them be aware, so that maybe it won't ever happen again!

This is a very serious situation, not one to be taken lightly! Nothing happened so they are not worried about it. We think something did happen and it should be treated as if it did happen!

One-man volleyball team Bob Holmes plays all of the eighth grade boys at Bay Middle School on Oct. 23. He also challenged teams composed of sixth-grade girls, seventh-grade boys and teachers at the school. According to his web site, www.beatbob.com, Holmes travels to schools across the country to "offer help and encouragement as people fight the peer pressure exerted on them to abuse sex, drugs, suicide, violence and alcohol." He states that his message is geared toward all ages, and that crowds respond well to the exhibition of one person challenging an entire team. "This builds excitement as the crowd gains my respect," he said. "I want people to realize that they can 'Beat the Odds' of life, just as I take on extreme odds on the volleyball court. He has played against the Washington Redskins, the Baltimore Orioles and the Minnesota Vikings.

Haunted Fair set October 29-31

Event to benefit Hope Haven

BY SHANNON JENKINS
Staff Writer

Although frightening things await anyone who creeps into the Haunted Woods, the excursion is well worth the consequences.

The Haunted Woods Halloween Fair, planned for Oct. 29-31 from 7 to 10 p.m. each night, promises a spooky good time and a chance to help the children at Hope Haven.

All the proceeds collected during this three-day fright fest will benefit the children's shelter.

Colleen Abadie, the Haunted Woods organizer, hopes the fair will become an annual fundraising event for Hope Haven.

She said the Haunted Woods Halloween Fair not only serves as a benefit, but provides safe fun for children and adults alike.

"It's cool for kids to have something to do and somewhere to go for Halloween," Abadie said.

The fair will offer older children and adults "real scares" with a haunted hay ride and the Fear Trail, which cuts through the woods on the VFW Post 4808 grounds on Lower Bay Road near Gulfview Elementary.

For young children, the fair will provide non-scary fun with the Trick-or-Treat Trail through the House of Boo, which includes fun characters who pass out candy. Photo opportunities will also be available with the Great Pumpkin in the pumpkin patch.

There will also be food and games. Abadie believes a game that allows visitors to throw "slime" filled balloons at a monster will be a favorite.

Although the fair is progressing well, Abadie originally wanted to do a haunted house.

"I talked to other people, and they mentioned a haunted house may not be practical because finding the right structure could be difficult," she said.

Abadie then brought the idea of having a hay ride to Sam Ladner, the commander at Post 4808. He graciously offered the post's grounds.

When Abadie saw the large grounds, she decided there was plenty of room for more than just a hay ride.

"It snowballed from there," she said.

Abadie began soliciting local businesses for donations.

Candy donations came from Kmart, Waveland Market, Wal-Mart Supercenter and Winn Dixie Coastal Hardware, Hubbards, Markel Industries and McDonald and Sons donated building materials while Adam's Paint and Sherwin-Williams provided paint.

Abadie also found about 16 volunteers to help run the fair, but she said she needs about 20 more to "cover all the bases."

Tickets are $2 for children 12 and under and $3.50 for general admission.

Any businesses or volunteers wishing to help may contact Colleen Abadie at 228-466-9366.

I have asked some very probing questions of the administration as to the specific uses of this $87 billion. Of the total, $67 billion will be for our troops, to pay for much needed equipment like body armor, of which there has been some reports of shortages.

The remaining $20 billion will be for actual reconstruction. Now, obviously we would all prefer that this funding be a loan, but there are some serious questions as to whether a loan to Iraq is possible.

There is no government there to receive the loan, and Iraq has many other outstanding debts which it cannot repay.

Whether a loan or a grant, either way, the quicker Iraq and Afghanistan are stabilized, the quicker our troops come home, and the more secure our own nation becomes.

As Blair said, nothing will come easy or cheap in the War on Terror, but we are persevering. So far 43 of the 55 most wanted former Iraqi leaders are either dead or in custody.

All of Iraq's 240 hospitals are open. Iraq's important airports, rail lines and seaports are functioning. Before the war, Saddam used the nation's power grid as a tool to suppress its people, cutting off power to his opponents.

Today, Iraq's power grid, its water and sanitation system and its security forces are rapidly being rebuilt - this time to serve Iraq's people instead of a demented dictator's personal desires.

Piece by piece, we're finding and confiscating Saddam's weapons programs.

The Iraq Survey Group has found a network of biological laboratories and safehouses once maintained by Iraqi Intelligence; a prison laboratory complex, possibly used for human testing of biological agents; strains of biological organisms concealed in scientists' homes; advanced design work on prohibited longer range missiles and activity to produce illegal missile propellants; newly documented links between Iraq and North Korea and systematic efforts to sanitize or destroy documents, computers and other records related to weapons research.

Yet, this is only the beginning of our search and our work to stabilize Iraq. There remain hundreds of suspected weapons sites to survey and many more repairs to make.

The Iraqi and Afghan people have a real opportunity to build productive, democratic and free nations dedicated not to destruction, but to development. As Prime Minister Blair so eloquently said, if we value our own national security, then we cannot take the easy course. We must help Iraq and Afghanistan become secure.

Our investment in freedom worked in the Cold War. It can work in the Terror War, too. Freedom's spread is America's best security policy because people who are free do not threaten freedom.

Kids Clean Up

Last month, volunteers from Connie Roth's, Janet Freeman's, Marietta Murray's, and Margie Schmitt's 6th grade classes participated in the Coast Clean-Up. The September 20 event served as a community service project for the sixth grade science and social studies classes from Bay-Waveland Middle School. They cleaned the beach from Washington to Ramoneda. Sixth Grader, Carlene Tillman, states, "We had to pick up butts, cans, and trash. It is one of the nastiest things to do, but you have to do it to keep the coast clean." Kahla Higgins voiced an important discovery, "We found lots of trash that could kill animals or hurt people." Even though the clean-up may sound like a lot of hard work, the students seemed to enjoy it. "Coast Clean-up was very fun, but it was a lot of hard work. It was a fun way to save the environment and it makes you feel good because you helped the environment," said Zachary Salter. By having her students participate in the clean-up, 6th grade teacher, Constance Roth, wanted to teach her students something the textbooks couldn't. "The Coast Clean-Up is an opportunity for my students to experience first-hand the serious problem of pollution. They become stewards of their environment and the unique resources of our area. It also builds a sense of community among the students," stated Roth.

He said the harbor had security 24 hours a day, but there was no regularly set schedule. This meant there was no one on duty at some times.

"People know if someone is here or not," he said.

Davis plans to have people on duty around the clock. Currently, a security company fills in the gaps in the schedule.

"I hope to have enough people in the future to man the harbor without hiring an outside agency," Davis said.

Davis has provided security officers with a checklist and guidelines for inspecting the harbor. He also began working on training for officers, including classes on CPR and boating.

Davis said the Coast Guard will train officers how to properly use the harbor's boat.

"I don't feel the boat has been used in the past as it could be used," he said. "We have a boat, and we're going to use it."

Davis said the boat can be used to control such problems as speeders in the harbor and boats idling around. He said officers can also use the boat to clean up trash in the water.

With these improvements already underway, Davis hopes to have the office and personnel operating the way he wants it within four months.

It will take him a little longer to take an inventory of the boats in the harbor and organize the 325 commercial and recreational slips.

"Our biggest challenges are inventory and organizing the piers," he said.

Davis and other harbor employees must number the slips, then do inventory of the boats and have the boats docked in the proper slips. They must also weed out boats that are not supposed to be there, which they have already begun doing.

With all these improvements in mind, Davis still has plans to make physical changes to the harbor.

He hopes to build a new pier, which will house about 30 new slips for skiff (small boats). The skiff pier, he said, would only be used during oyster season.

"If we allow skiffs to stay year-round, chances are the boaters won't check on them," he said. "Sometimes they sink, and the harbor is responsible for the clean-up."

Implementing a new parking design is another change Davis plans to make. He hopes this plan will allow more parking for vehicles and boat trailers and alleviate potential danger.

Davis said people are backing across a section of the parking bay that serves as an entrance from Highway 90. Instead of backing into traffic, Davis plans to have motorists pulling into any traffic coming off Highway 90.

Other concerns include holding negligent boaters responsible for damage they cause and properly marking handicap spaces.

"It's all coming together," Davis said. "We want a nice, safe environment."

In addition to providing safety and organization, Davis hopes to bring in more revenue. He said the harbor is making money, but not enough to cover all of its expenses.

He hopes to save money by cutting down on minor damages caused by some careless boaters.

"It's a lot of little things people are doing that's costing the city a lot of money," he said. "We have a lot of hard work to do to stop it."

By purchasing supplies in bulk, Davis plans to reduce expenses in maintenance. In order to make money, the addition of the skiff pier will provide the harbor with more renters.

Davis also plans to look into the fees currently being charged for the slips and wants to compare those fees to what is being charged along the Coast.

Trick -- drug bust

a controlled substance, marijuana," Karl added.

New Orleans Police department's personnel reported to the Narcotic's Division that Huber had been an officer on the department from 1967 to 1976, Karl said.

The arrest was made by Karl, Agents Bubba Malley, Chris Russell and Johnny Allison.

The arrest of Huber was before the start of Operation "No-Trick-or-Treat", Garber said, as agents had arrest warrants for a dozen suspects in illegal drug activities in the county.

In addition to Huber's arrest, Shelia C. Rando, 42, 5030 Lower Bay Road, Lot B, was arrested by agents for the alleged sale of a controlled substance, crack cocaine, during the Operation, Karl reported.

Karl continued, "We were in route to another location, when an undercover officer was approached by Rando offering cocaine for sale, and we accommodated her."

Huber's bond was set at $25,000 and Rando's $20,000, according to Karl.

Seizure procedures are being processed for Huber's vehicle and some $649 was seized from him during the bust, Karl said, adding that Agent Malley is in charge of the case.

Of the dozen suspects on the list for the Roundup, agents had arrested nine by Thursday evening.

Karl listed the following as being arrested for sale of a controlled substance:

Terry M. Oliver, 46, 228 Washington St., Bay St. Louis, bond $20,000;

Clifton Pearson, 22, 5321 Wendell Ladner Road, Perkinston, bond $25,000; and Dennis Nelson, 44, Catahoula, bond $20,000.

David Copping, 43, 2107 7th St., Bay St. Louis, was charged with transfer of a controlled substance and his bond was $15,000, Karl reported.

When Agent Malley arrested Pearson on Thursday, he had in his pocket crystal meth, Karl stated.

Karl said this was the first time for the Narcotic's Division to conduct a roundup in the evening. "You know, we found out there was a lot of activities going on within the county at that time."

The planned roundup began around 6:30 p.m. and agents finished around midnight, with two of the arrests taking place on Thursday.

Favre -- roasted

brought tears of laughter to the large crowd gathered at Bay St. Louis Park, with hilarious stories that were best heard "by adults only." Alderman Bill Taylor served as Master of Ceremonies.

Favre, who was recently inaugurated as the president of the Mississippi Municipal League, showed up in his usual fashionably-late tradition in tux and tails, saying that "on time" was when he got there.

Besides Metzler, colleagues, friends and mayors from across the state came to pay their respects with light-hearted jabs at Favre's personality and policies.

"After all, what can he do to us," said one mayor. "We live too far away for him to try to annex. One mayor, pretending alternately to be both gubernatorial candidates Haley Barbour and Ronnie Musgrove compared the two to Favre.

Barbour, while in Washington, sometimes comes in to the office at 11:30, takes an hour and a half lunch, stays for an hour and goes home for the day, poked the mayor, making fun of Favre's well known absence from his office. Musgrove, while he does have shorts that he wears to the beach, doesn't wear them everywhere, said the mayor, poking fun at Favre's well know casual style of dressing.

Hancock County Chamber Director Tish Williams told the audience that when she took the job as chamber director, she knew she had to get to know Favre.

"I looked for him in church and that is where I found his dear mother," said Williams. "I looked for him in the restaurants and that is where I found his brother and sister-in-law."

Where she finally found Favre, she said, was at a local watering hole, holding court at the end of the bar.

"He said, 'darlin', you are doing a great job,'" Haas said, "and asked me to have a shot of tequila with him, straight."

Williams presented

Favre with a wrapped bottle of the beverage he is reputed to love.

Besides the bottle, Favre was presented with many other tokens of affection by both city and county officials and employees, including an award "for consistently having the second best red beans" at the annual cook-off by Tax Assessor Jimmy Ladner' and a five-foot tall message pole by his secretary Barbara Redding, "for messages he has the reputation for not answering."

Favre's aldermen didn't escape roasting, either, as Metzler described them as "Eddie Favres-in-training." Metzler covered just about every subject from personal habits-- "is he Superman or The Flash"-- to his reputation as mayor-- "honest, but you should see his record at youth court."

Metzler's barbs were pointed but, like everyone else during the evening, threw them all in the spirit of good fun.

Crashes -- two die

On Thursday, Pass Christian resident John P. Hammond was killed at Hwy. 607 and Hwy. 90 when his car hit an 18-wheeler driven by Brandon Stewart, 28, of Carriere. According to MHP reports, both Hammond and Stewart were driving south on Hwy. 607 when Stewart turned his rig right onto Hwy. 90.

Hammond's vehicle struck the 18-wheeler on the right side and went into a ditch. Hammond was pronounced dead at the scene.

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The Arts, Hancock County Mississippi will hold its October meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 29 at 6 pm.

Please note the change of location: The meeting will be held at the Waveland branch, not the Bay St. Louis branch, of the Hancock County Library this month. The Waveland branch is located on Coleman Avenue.

The primary focus of the meeting will be a report of the survey sent to all members and a discussion of how the results will be used in the strategic planning process. The Arts recently received a mini grant from the Mississippi Arts Commission to assist in developing long range and short range goals and activities.

The long awaited t-shirts, decals and mugs bearing The Arts logo will also be available at the meeting. For more information call Gwen Impson at Our baby boy would have been 10 this year. For us this is a sad day, but we moved on from sorrow to waiting justice and this never happened. They've ruled it an accident but this ATV should not have been on the road.

Now all we have are memories and pictures that no one can take away. Our son and friend never played T-Ball that year, but he'll always be the angel in the outfield.

He never started kindergarten, never danced at Prom, he'll never graduate high school, never go to college, never get married and he'll never have baby's of his own to watch grow.

And on this birthday there will be no party with cake and ice cream. They'll be balloons sent to heaven and flowers on his grave and prayer there after.

And a picture in our hearts that no one can take away.

$2 Million for Stennis Airport Tower included in appropriations bill

Federal funding totaling $2 million has been inserted into a federal transportation appropriations bill by U.S. Senator Trent Lott, who chairs the U.S. Senate's Aviation Subcommittee. If retained during conference, the funds will help construct an air traffic control tower at Stennis Airport in Hancock County.

"I was pleased that this amendment was accepted and added into the FY 2004 Senate Transportation Appropriations Bill," Senator Lott said. "Recently we've been successful in funding a number of major airport improvements throughout our state, including several air traffic control towers. These enhancements not only improve an airport's capacity and safety, but they also are assisting our efforts to attract new economic development and jobs, which often depend on access to good airports and modern aviation infrastructure or equipment."

Stennis Airport and Stennis Space Center remain not only important facilities for federal programs and a catalyst for economic development but they also complement nearby military bases like Keesler Air Force Base.

Specifically, the control tower will help Keesler's ability to perform flight training in the region, as well as a benefit in local economic development initiatives.

The Senate Transportation Bill now goes to conference with the U.S. House.

Second annual "Spend at Home" program signup underway now

With the holiday shopping season fast approaching, Gulf Coast businesses can take advantage of some free publicity by signing on to be a part of the 2nd Annual "Spend at Home" Campaign.

The campaign is designed to increase local spending and consumer awareness of the amount of money lost from our local economy when money is spent online or in neighboring states.

To participate, merchants simply need to offer a 10% discount on their products and services from November 28 - December 24th. Participating merchants will receive posters to put in "The more infrastructure we have near our military bases that can complement or enhance their operations, the better off these bases will be if there is another base closure round," Senator Lott continued. "I encourage my House colleagues to retain this important Senate amendment during the upcoming conference."

Senator Lott has worked successfully to fund other vital infrastructure at Stennis Airport in recent years including the acquisition and installation of an Instrument Landing System (ILS) at the airport, which has now been certified by the Federal Aviation Administration.

their windows signaling the savings to area residents.

Last year, over 180 businesses from Hancock to Jackson County participated in this free promotion. Participating merchants represented a wide variety of categories such as antiques, apparel, furniture, salons, housewares, golf courses, hotels, medical, and restaurants, to name a few. The "Spend at Home" campaign is being sponsored by the Harrison County Development Commission, Biloxi Bay Chamber of Commerce and the Sun Herald, and numerous other local organizations and media outlets including the Sea Coast Echo. For more information, please call (228) 863-3807.

Jobless rate falls

WRITER

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi's jobless rate fell for the second consecutive month, declining to 5.3 percent in September and pushing statewide unemployment to its lowest level since December 2001.

Economists and labor analysts offer cautious optimism for the improved jobless rate, which puts Mississippi below the national unemployment rate for the first time in over a year.

The good news is that because the jobless rate has dropped for two months, economists say the employment outlook appears to be improving.

There is a definite downward trend in the jobless rate, said Rajeev Dhawan, director for the Economic Forecasting Center at Georgia State University. But the dramatic drop, to 5.3 percent from 6.3 percent in August and 7.3 percent in July, doesn't coincide with an increase in the number of workers on nonfarm payrolls. That number has remained relatively flat over several months.

That means Mississippi isn't gaining jobs.

Powerful Tide washes over Hawks 23-0

BY DWAYNE BREMER
Contributing Writer

The Hancock Hawks 2003 football season has been an up and down ride, and Friday night the Hawks experienced another heart-break, as they lost to their rivals from Picayune 23-0.

The Hawks (4-5) played with great effort and spirit throughout the game, but in the end it was the inability to capitalize on three early Maroon Tide mistakes that may have done the Hawks in.

Picayune running back Justin Magee carried 29 times for 147 yards, as the Tide used a ball control offense and a tough defense to improve the record to 8-1.

The Hawks defense would provide a spark early, as Tyler Ball sacked quarterback Chris Stewart causing a fumble that Charles Bolden recovered at the Tide 30.

The Hawks would only pick up two yards on a run by Myron Fairley, and David Brown came on to attempt a 45-yard field goal. The kick was missed just wide to the right, and the Tide took over at the 20.

The Hawks defense collected another fumble four plays later, as a bad exchange was pounced on by Matt Rayborn at the 23.

The Hawks picked up nine yards on three runs by Fairley and Jarrod Barrios, and on fourth and one the Hawks went for it at the Tide 14. Robert Domke picked up three yards, but the Hawks were flagged for assisting the runner call, and the first down was called back. On the next play Domke threw to the corner of the end zone, but Steven Dauenhauer caught the ball just out of bounds, and the Tide took over at the 19.

Three plays later the Tide turned the ball over again, as Travis Hall scooped up a fumble at the 26.

The Hawks offense could not gain any yards, and Brown missed a 40-yard field goal, as the Hawks lost out on their third golden opportunity of the first quarter.

The Hawks defense remained tough, as they forced a punt on the Tide's next possession.

The Hawks took over at the 31, but Domke's first pass was intercepted by Stephan Hall and returned to the Hawks 18.

The Tide would take full advantage of the Hawks mistake, as Ryan Dittier scooted around the right side for a 15-yard touchdown only two plays later. Scott Hillary added the point after, and with 10:16 to play in the first half the Tide led 7-0.

The Tide got good field position to start their next drive after a 17-yard Hawk punt. The Tide drove eight plays for a score with Magee getting the bulk of the carries. Magee ended the drive with an eight yard touchdown, and after the extra point the Tide led 14-0 with 6:20 to play in the half.

The two team traded punts, and on the final play of the half, Braxton Necaise was intercepted by Jimmy Jones of the Tide at the 15.

The Hawks took the second half kickoff, and started out at the 20. The Hawks picked up a first down when Necaise hit Dauenhauer for a nine yard pass, but two straight sacks forced the Hawks to punt.

The Tide took over at the 46 with 8:03 to play in the third. The Tide would pick up four-first downs on their drive, as they marched 14 plays to reach the Hawks seven. Hillary booted a 23-yard field goal, and the Tide had a 17-0 lead with 1:15 to play in the third.

After forcing the Hawks to punt the Tide took over at the 20, with 9:58 to play in the game. Once again the Tide put together a monster drive, as the took over six minutes and 15-plays before Magee scored from four yards out. The extra point was blocked by Matt Rayborn, but the Tide was in control 23-0 with just 3:22 to play.

The Hawks would get one final chance to dent the scoreboard, as the took over at the 37. Necaise hit Dauenhauer for 14-yards, and Necaise then found David Brown for a 20-yard completion. Daniel Spiers ran for nine yards, but the Hawks were denied as scored when Necaise was intercepted at the ten by Desmond McDougal.

The game ended 23-0.

The Hawks defense played well all night, and there were several good performances. Bolden had eight tackles and a fumbled recovery, and Donald Hains had ten tackles.

The Hawks were virtually eliminated from the playoff race with the loss, although they may still be alive for a Bowl Game if they win the final two games.

Next week, the Hawks will face off against the Meridian Wildcats in "The Nest." It will be the last home game, and senior night.

Pass rops to Vancleave 21-15

BY STEVE SMITH
Contributing Writer

The Pass Christian Pirates closed out this season's District 8 4-A play with a heartbreaking loss to the Vancleave Bulldogs Friday night, also losing control of their playoff destiny.

The Pirates moved the ball effectively against a much larger Vancleave defense, but turnovers plagued the homestanding Pirates throughout the first half.

After stopping the Bulldog's first serious threat, a penetration to the Pirate 22 yard-line, and taking over on downs, Pass High ran two plays and fumbled the ball away. The Bulldogs drove to the four yard-line, and on fourth down attempted a field goal. Bobbling the snap, holder/quarterback Brad Madden rolled right and passed to kicker Trey Read for a touchdown. Read kicked the PAT and the Bulldogs took the lead at 7

The Pirates returned the kickoff to the 19 yard-line and ran three plays before losing another fumble and setting up Vancleave's second touchdown. Taking the ball at the Pirate 32, the Bulldogs used only four plays to score with Matt Sloan taking it in from the 21 yard-line. Trey Read's kick made the score Vancleave 14, Pass High 0.

The Pirates returned the kickoff to the 38 yard-line and aggressively punched the ball downfield, relying on Jared Bowser, who totaled 130 yards in the game. After reaching the Vancleave 28 yard-line, Pirate quarterback Jeffery Hillard lost the handle after being hit from behind while attempting a pass. The bulldogs took over at their own 36 yard-line and rolled 64 yards in 10 plays to go ahead 21 to 0, with 1:05 to play in the half.

Vancleave received the second half kickoff, but a determined Pirate defense stopped their advance and blocked the Bulldog punt to take over at the Vancleave's 26 yard-line. Seven plays later the Pirates were on the scoreboard with Hillard connecting with Anthony Henderson for a touchdown pass. Kicker Jonathan Willis ran for two after an errant snap made placement impossible, bringing the score to 21 to 8.

Pirate defense was outstanding in the second half and the Bulldogs committed numerous penalties, allowing the Pas High to mount a comeback.

Returning the kickoff to their 21 yard-line, the Bulldogs were held to one first down before punting to the Pirate 35 yard-line. An interference call on Vancleave helped the Pirates reach midfield with a first down, and then an offside penalty and two unsportsmanlike conduct personal fouls, all on the same down, cost the Bulldogs 35 more yards. With a first down at the Vancleave 11 yard-line, the Pirates used four plays to score as Jared Bowser took it in from the seven. Willis' kick was good and the Bulldog lead was cut to six at 21 to 15.

A Vancleave fumble gave Pass High an opportunity to even the score but the Pirates fell short after reaching the Bulldog's 10 yard-line, turning the ball over on downs.

Vancleave then fumbled after three plays and the Pirates had a first down at the Bulldog 29 yard-line. Another personal foul on Vancleave put the Pirates at the 11 yardline, but a Bulldog interception dashed the Pirates hopes and the game ended 21 to 15, Vancleave.

"These kids played with a lot of heart tonight," Coach Bo Vonderbrugge said, "they gave a hundred percent."

Pass High will close regular season play next Friday against Pearl River in a non-district game.

Pearl River Wildcats win their first-ever South Division soccer title

THE SEA COAST ECHO

POPLARVILLE-Pearl River Community College Wildcat soccer team won its first-ever MACJC South Division championship here Wednesday with an 8-1 blowout over Copiah-Lincoln to wrap up the regular season at 15-2-1 overall and 8-1-1 in league play.

The Wildcats will now join the Lady Wildcats as the No. 1 South seeds in the State-Region XXIII Tournament set for Saturday and Sunday at Hinds Community College in Raymond. PRCC's women repeated as division champs Friday with a 2-1 victory over Meridian. Co-Lin's women forfeited Wednesday's contest to the Lady Wildcats.

"All our hard work has paid off and now we're only two wins away from state championships for our men and women," said women's and men's head coach Adam Breerwood. "Our two teams have worked hard and paid the price on the practice field and it's paid off."

This marks the third time the PRCC men's and women's teams have qualified for the post-season playoffs in their five seasons of existence, while the Lady Wildcats' championship is the third in five years.

In Wednesday's clinching victory, Walt Thomas of Petal scored his first of two goals on the afternoon to put PRCC up 1-0 with 32:55 left in the first half, then Chris St. John of Oak Grove made it 2-0 just over a minute late. Josh Grajewski of Picayune High scored at the 16:03 mark, then Kade James of Forrest County AHS made good on a penalty kick 13:37 before the intermission to put the Wildcats up 4-0. Bubba Dedeaux of Oak Grove scored the final goal of the half with 1:27 left to make it 5-0 PRCC.

Less than 10 minutes into the second half, Thomas bagged his second goal, then David Fletcher of Oak Grove made it 7-0 with 22:13 left. Dedeaux scored again for PRCC's final goal of the regular season with 2:29 left, but Co-Lin's Chris Hughes of Natchez killed the Wildcats' shut out with a goal with 1:25 left.

Gautier blocks PAT in overtime for 28-27 victory over Stanislaus

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

It was a great night for football with a slight breeze in the air at the Brother Phillip Memorial Athletic Complex. And, the game was well worth the fans' admission. The Rock-a-chaws hosted the Gautier Gators in a Division 8 Class 4A showdown for the inside track to the division title.

The game was played to a 14-14 tie at the break. At the end of regulation, it was 21-21. And, in overtime it was Gautier 28-27.

Maybe it just wasn't supposed to be for the Rocks; however nobody told them that. SSC came out ready to play and laying the wood to the Gators. The Rocks physical running game countered the speed and finesse of the Gator passing attack. It was as even as a game could be in more ways than just the score. The total yardage favored the Rocks with 311 yards to Gautier's 306 yards. SSC had 16 first downs to Gautier's 13. The Gators had 178 passing yards while SSC ran up 181 yards on the ground. Each team had a drive ending interception. It was everything that a division title should be and then some - an overtime period.

The contest marked the second extra frame game for SSC this season. And, they have come up on the short end both times. Despite the loss, the Rocks are champions in the hearts of their coaches, their fans and in the eyes of the Gautier Gators. Gautier head coach Don Nelson stated, "We played a good game tonight and we were fortunate to beat a very good football team in St. Stanislaus. This was the best game that they have played all season. SSC was ready for this game and they proved it. They did what we expected them to do which was run the ball. They were very effective at moving the ball on us. We caught some breaks as some of their bruisers like Matt Hoda, Lee Klein, Michael Cure and others had to go both ways. Plus, late in the game we were able to hold them to minimal gains on first down.

"They had some tough luck tonight but they played extremely hard and are a good football team."

While they didn't get the job done tonight, the Rocks have placed themselves in a position to wrap up second place in the division and host a home playoff game at SSC in the first round if they are able to defeat the D'Iberville Warriors next Friday night.

The Rocks opened the game on offense and moved the football with the power running of Lee Klein and Matt Hoda. The Rocks tallied two first downs on the drive and went for it on fourth down. The Gators stuffed the play to force a turnover on downs.

The Gators took over at midfield with Gerrod Miskel running the offense. After minimal gains by Miskel and Andrew Tubbs, the Gators scored on a 34-yard pass from Miskel with 4:46 left in the first quarter. Kale Robbins added the PAT to make the score 7-0.

The Rocks answered with a nine-play drive of their own. Klein pounded out 37 yards on 6 carries before Tim Kulikowski hooked up with Spencer Ziegler for a 21-yard scoring pass with :20 left in the opening period. Michael Kivlan connected on the PAT to tie the score at 7-7.

The Rocks held the Gators on the ensuing drive with some fine defensive play by Mike Deifik and Zack Elkins. Elkins deflected pass attempts while Deifik applied the pressure to the Gator signal caller. The Rocks took over at their own 30 yardline following the punt.

On the third play of the drive, Kulikowski connected with Michael Cure who took a routine sideline pass and outraced the Gator defensive backs 64 yards for the score. Kivlan converted on the PAT to make the score 14-7 with 9:49 left in the first half.

A short kick allowed the Gators to take over at their own 37 yardline. Two big plays by the Gators brought the ball down to the Rock 5 yardline.

Andrew Tubbs scored from three yards out with 7:45 left in the half. Robbins converted on the PAT to tie the score at 14-14. Each team traded a possession to end the half. Stefan Sofianos ended the Gautier drive with an interception in the endzone.

The Rocks opened the second half with an onside kick attempt that Gautier recovered at their own 47 yardline. The Rock defense gave up some yardage on a third-and-long situation; however, the Rocks forced a turnover on downs at their own 18 yardline.

SSC was unable to move the chains and were forced to punt the ball away. The Gators mounted an 11-play scoring drive that started from their own 39 yardline. Tubbs pounded the ball forward for the Gators with carries of 16, -1, 6, and 4 yards. Miskel got the drive going, however, with a 20-yard scramble after breaking free of several Rock tacklers in the backfield.

Miskel threw his second scoring pass of the game to a Gautier receiver for a 13-yard touchdown. Robbins converted on the PAT to make the score 21-14 with 11:48 left to play in the game.

The Rocks answered again with a 16-play scoring drive of their own. Jordan Ellis came in to spell Klein in the backfield and gained 23 yards on five carries. Kulikowski connected with Cure for a 12-yard gain to keep the drive alive. On fourth-and-12, Kulikowski found Sofianos for a 12-yard score with 6:20 left in the game. Kivlan converted the PAT to tie the score at 21-21.

Klein, Ellis, Hoda, Brignone, Floyd Dedeaux and others held firm on defense for the Rocks to force a Gator punt. The Rocks took over on their own 35-yardline. Klein had carries of 7, 13, 4, and 1 yard to put the ball at the Gautier 38 yardline with time ticking away. Kulikowski threw a pass that was tipped by the intended receiver and was picked off to end the Rock drive at the Gator 25 yardline.

SSC called on their defense once again to keep the Gators out of the endzone with :51 left to play in regulation. The Rocks forced a Gator punt and took over at their own 36 yardline.

Kulikowski found Sofianos for 11 yards and Gautier penalty pushed the ball another 15 yards with :00 left on the clock. The Rocks went for the gusto on the final play to no avail.

The Gators got the ball first on offense in the overtime period. Cure stopped the Gautier runner for a 3-yard loss on the first play. Miskel threw an incomplete pass on the next play. With third-and-13, Miskel hooked up with Jarrod Rudolph for a 13-yard score. Robbins converted on the PAT to make the score 28-21. SSC took over on offense and handed off to Klein. He was thrown for a loss on the first play but a Gator penalty added five yards to the end of the run. Klein gained five yards on the second play and then sealed the drive with a 3-yard scoring plunge. Kivlan lined up for the PAT but the Gator surge blocked the attempt as Gautier claimed the 28-27 win over SSC.

SSC head coach Casey Wittmann commented,

"Gautier has a team of great athletes. They had a lot of speed at wide receiver and we had trouble covering them downfield. But, we have a bunch of champions in our lockerroom tonight. Our guys played like it and I will always think of them as champions. These players have taken our program to a new level in just two years. I cannot ask for any more than what the players put forth tonight. We still have goals for this team and a lot to play for. If we are able to defeat D'Iberville next week, we will place second in the division and host a playoff game in the first round. These players still have a lot to play for. I am very proud of their effort tonight."

Lee Klein led all rushers with 25 carries for 126 yards and a touchdown. Tim Kulikowski threw for 130 yards and three touchdowns on 6-for-12 passing. Michael Cure had three catches for 86 yards and a score.

The Gators did not have a back with over 50 yards rushing but Jarrod Rudolph had five catches for 108 yards and three scores.

Defensively, the Rocks were led by Lee Klein and Jordan Ellis with 11 total hits each.

The Rocks will travel to D'Iberville to play the Warriors in the final regular season game for both teams next Friday night on Halloween. If the Rocks win, they will be the second place team in Division 8 Class 4A and will host the first-ever home playoff game at SSC. The Rocks have been to the state playoffs three previous times in 1991, 1998, and 2002. All three previous games were on the road against South Pike. The game against D'Iberville is slated for a 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

Recreational Red Snapper season closes November 1

Tigers drop double overtime loss to East Central

BY MAURICE SINGLETON

Contributing Writer

For the first time this season, the Bay High Tigers lost consecutive games, the second a 48-41 double overtime, district loss to East Central at McCullough Stadium in Bay St. Louis on Friday night.

The Tigers scored first in overtime on a 10-yard Lorenzo Lewis' run. Shawn Moran, kicking in the absence of his brother, Kyle, kicked his fifth PAT kick of the night to give the Tigers a 41-34 lead.

Jovan Williams, Cory Thornton, Jimmy Blount, Teddy Morris, P.K. Keyes, Brad Ladner, Michael Gros and the rest of the defense maintained their second half intensity and held the visitors to no gain on their first two snaps, but on the third snap of the overtime, East Central quarterback Adam McQueen, with pressure, found the open receiver in the back of the end zone for the score. The PAT kick tied the game at 41-41.

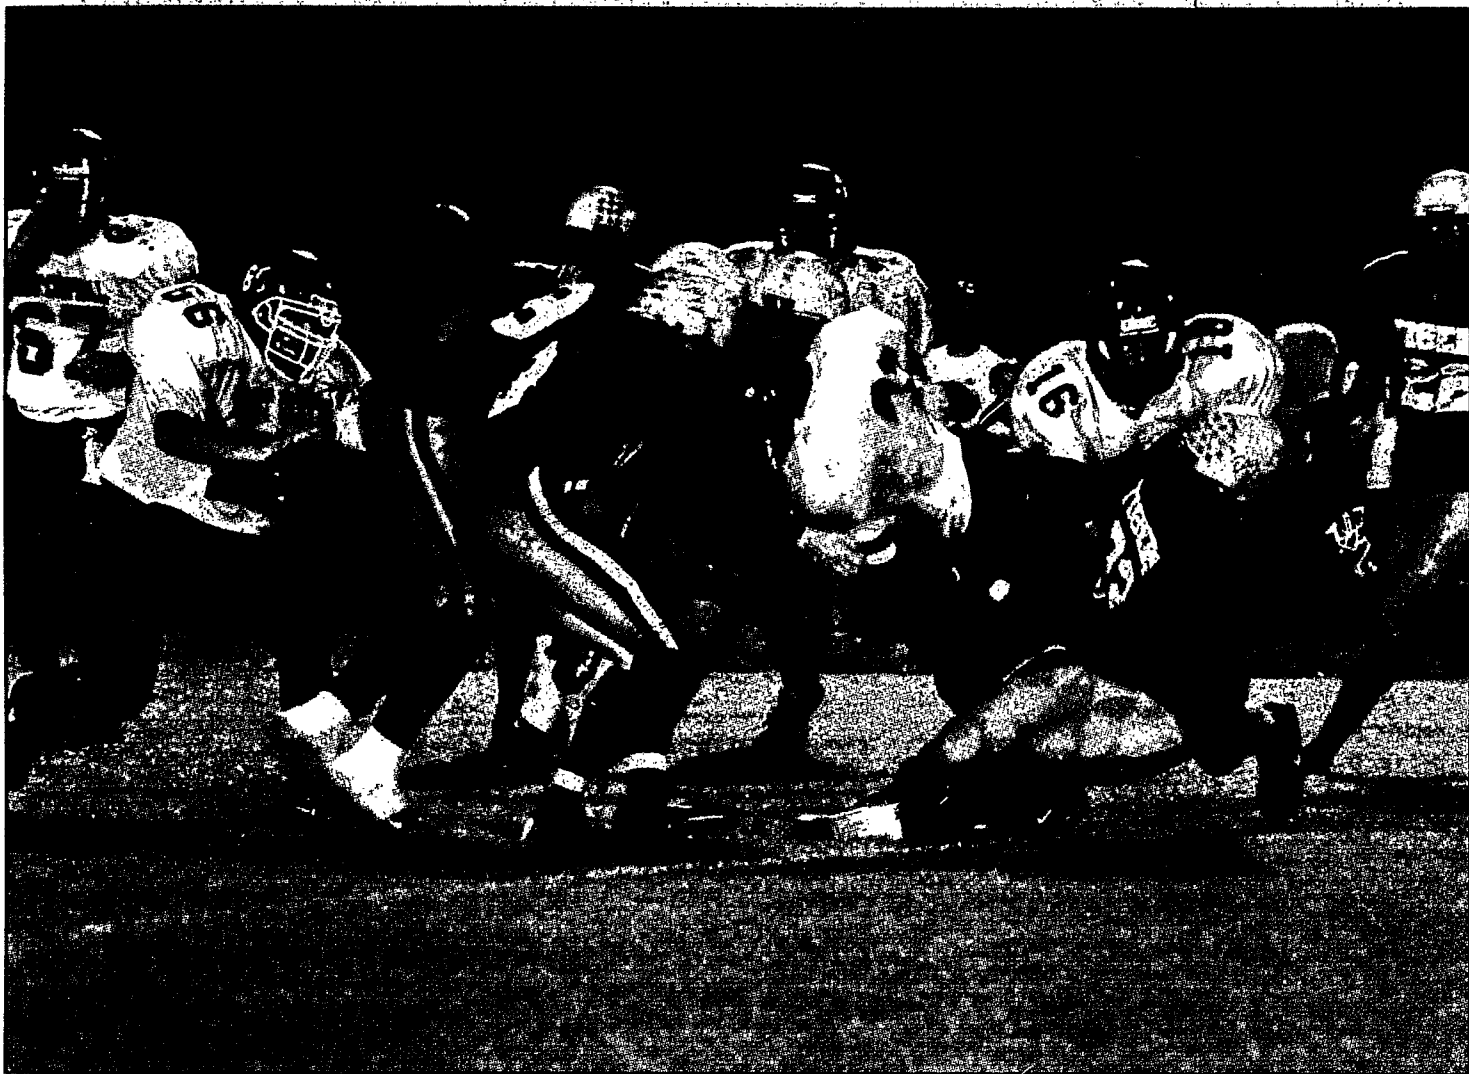

East Central won the toss and elected to receive first in the second overtime. The Tigers were flagged for being offside, which resulted in a first-and-goal for East Central at the Tigers' 5 yard line. On first down Jamarus McGee carried for the go-ahead score.

On the ensuing possession, facing second-and-goal from the 10 yard line, the Tigers got 3 yards closer to the score on a second down run by Lewis. On third down, Zack Ferry's pass to Lewis in the end zone was batted down. On fourth, Ferry dropped back, and then rolled left, dashing toward the end zone. But Ferry came up just short...only inches short.

"We were about an inch away," Tigers' coach Glenn Williams recalled. "We were so close, but we didn't get the win."

"We can still make the playoffs, but we have to beat Vancleave next week." The Tigers are 5-4 (2-3 in district) going into next week's district game at Vancleave. There are several scenarios which confirm Williams' anticipation of the playoffs; all require they defeat Vancleave, 7-2 (3-2 in district) on the road next Friday.

East Central got on the scoreboard first on their first possession of the game. The visitors started the drive with a potent running attack, but capped the drive with a 26-yard touchdown strike to Corey Rayborn. The PAT kick attempt failed; East Central led 6-0.

Lewis got the Tigers started with a 27-yard punt return carry that gave the Tigers a first down at East Central's 45 yard line. On third down, Ferry hit Lewis on stride for a 45-yard touchdown pass play. Moran's first PAT kick gave the Tigers a 7-6 lead.

East Central scored twice before the Tigers would get on the board again. Trailing 20-7, Ferry found Lewis again, this time a 10-yard touchdown strike to trail 20-13, with 33.7 ticks remaining on the first half clock. Lewis had critical plays on the drive, beginning with a 20-yard punt return, followed by a 34-yard pass play. Antonio Hawkins had a 32-yard reception to move the ball to the 10 yard line.

The Tigers evened the score midway through the third quarter on a spectacular bomb from Ferry to Lewis down the visitors' sideline. Moran's PAT kick tied the score at 20-20.

East Central recaptured the lead with spectacular aerial dynamics of their own as McQueen launched a 26-yard bomb to Dematio Wells. The PAT kick gave the visitors a 27-20 lead.

The fireworks continued on the first play from scrimmage following the ensuing kickoff. Ferry repeated his bomb to Lewis down the visitors' sideline, this time a 75-yard touchdown play. Moran's PAT kick tied the game 27-27.

Ferry helped himself to a pickoff of a McQueen pass and outran Hornets for 53 yards to the visitors' 12 yard line.

On third down, Ferry carried for 10 yards to the visitors' 2 yard line. Hawkins capped the drive with a 2-yard between the tackles touchdown carry to give the Tigers a 34-27 early fourth quarter lead after Moran's PAT kick.

The Tigers' defense denied the visitors on their ensuing possession, holding them to four snaps, closing the drive with an incomplete pass on fourth down. The Hornets' defense returned the favor, forcing the Tigers to punt on fourth down, putting the Tigers on notice that their defense was getting their second wind.

The visitors fielded Tony Marino's punt at their own 35 yard line, and from there the offense went to work. McQueen mixed the run with passes to Jamie Dees, Rayborn and Wells, the latter a 26-yard touchdown dive in the end zone for the tying score following the successful PAT kick, which was good enough to force the overtime.

On the night Ferry completed 15 of 29 passes for 337 yards and four touchdowns. Lewis had 7 receptions, totaling 280 yards for four touchdowns catches and one rushing touchdown. Hawkins added 7 receptions for 53 yards and 30 rushing yards and a touchdown. Ferry and Lewis each had an interception on the night.

The Tigers travel to Vancleave next Friday night to battle for the fourth District 8 4A playoff spot.

Bobwhite quail initiative announced

BY JAMES L. CUMMINS

At a recent gathering at Mississippi State University, representatives of national, regional and state conservation agencies and organizations announced the first multi-state initiative designed to restore declining bobwhite quail populations, which have been declining at an average rate of approximately 3.8 percent per year.

These population declines have been attributed to the effects of large-scale deterioration of quail habitat quality. Historic quail population levels were a natural by-product of land use and in modern landscapes quail occur only where habitat is created. Restoration of quail populations requires creation and maintenance of early successional plants.

The initiative will help re-establish the popular game bird's numbers throughout the Southeastern United States. The Mississippi Fish and Wildlife Foundation worked with U.S. Senator Thad Cochran and the Natural Resources Conservation Service's (NRCS) Wildlife Habitat Management Institute (WHMI) to establish the initiative.

Technical assistance on bobwhite habitat management will be provided. Landowners may receive assistance for establishing and maintaining specific types of early successional habitats through existing conservation programs. Practices that contribute to the enhancement of quail habitat would be incorporated into existing conservation programs. There will be a research project to monitor and establish success.

A Visiting Ghost

Views From a Front Porch

La Violette

laviolette@mail.datasync.com

On this Friday, Oct. 31, the Hancock County Historical Society will conduct its 11th annual Halloween Tour at the Cedar Rest Cemetery at 200 South Second Street in Bay St. Louis.

The tour hours will be between 5 and 8 p.m. Donations will be accepted and used for the restoration of headstones. After the tour, refreshments will be served at the Lobrano House 108 Cue Street (next to the courthouse). Please come and join us.

Among the spectral presences this year, there will be a visiting ghost. He has condescended to give below the gist of his speech as a sampling of what will be presented during the tour by other "past citizens."

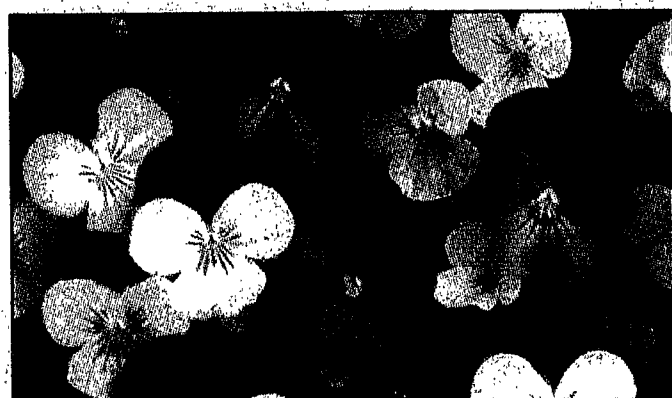

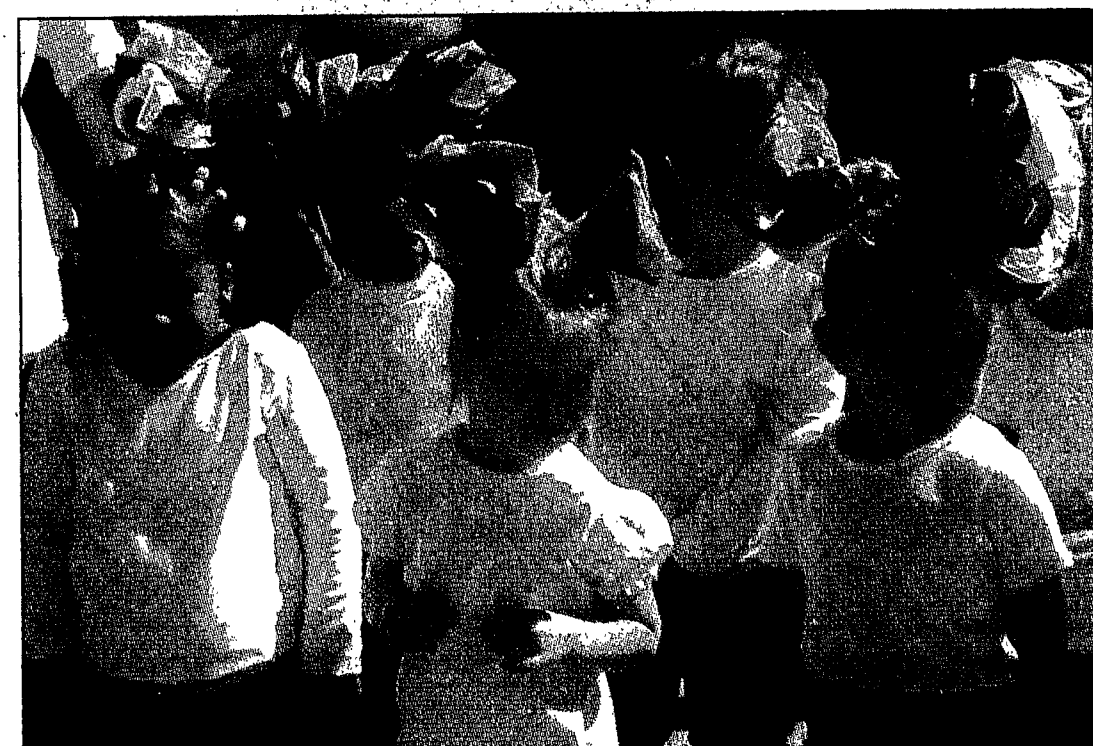

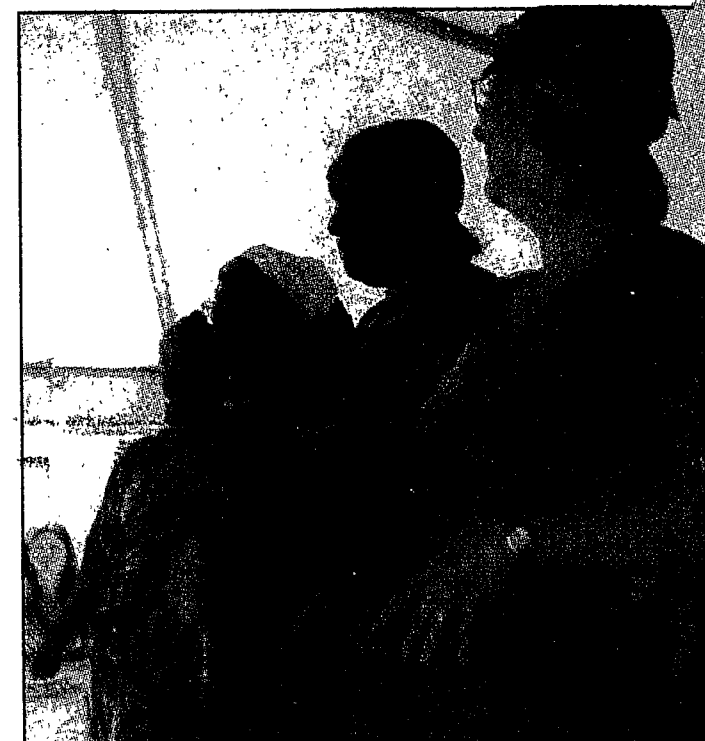

Good Evening, When I was alive, my name was William P. Canby. I was a Midshipman in the US Navy and I died in a naval battle on 14 December 1814.

Don't look for my grave among the gravestones in this cemetery. I am a visiting ghost. My corporal remains are interred in a grave in St. Louis Cemetery, No. 1 in New Orleans. In the last few decades, a veterans group has found my tombstone and has cleaned it and marked the area with small plaques that honor my death. But few know of what actually happened to me or how and where I died.

I would like to tell you what happened and why I in truth should be buried here in this old cemetery in Bay St. Louis rather than in St. Louis Cemetery No. 1 in New Orleans.

I was born in the seafaring town of Norfolk, Virginia in 1796 and through the influence of a family friend was accepted as a midshipman in the US Navy when I was about 16 years old. It was

New viola mixes offer excitement

BY NORMAN WINTER

Just when I'm old enough to get set in my ways, something new happens in the plant world to get me unsettled. The most recent episode involves violas.

I have always been a mass-plant-a-single-color kind of guy. In other words, mixes and blends have never been my cup of tea. But now I'll admit I am beginning to be won over by mixes, particularly the new Sorbet viola mixes.

The Sorbet series of violas has always been one of my favorites from the standpoint of landscape impact and color palette. Three new mixes have made my admiration even greater.

The Duet Mix has bold, vibrant orange, yellow, violet, cream and lavender petals. The Citrus Mix has orange, yellow and white. The Swirl Mix has an heirloom, or antique, look with pale yellow, cream with lilac and lavender shades.

The viola is an old-fashioned garden favorite and the wild ancestor of the pansy, sometimes even called wild pansy. Another common name is heart's ease, which originated in England where the brightly colored flowers spring up in meadows.

GARDENING-4B

The Duet viola mix (top) features bold, vibrant orange, yellow, violet, cream and lavender petals, and the Swirl mix (bottom) has an heirloom, or antique, look with pale yellow, cream with lilac and lavender shades.

Waveland Elementary faculty members paint students' faces during Going Fishing Day at the school last month.

Waveland Elementary celebrates 'Fishing' day

BY MARTHA EUBANKS
 On September 26, Waveland Elementary held a "Going Fishing Day" to celebrate the students' success on the Mississippi Curriculum Test and to foster the FISH philosophy. The FISH philosophy has four main components. They are choose your attitude, be present in your tasks, make someone's day, and have fun.

The entire school participated in a fish fry and educational games for the students. The students really enjoyed going fishing. Student, Katelyn Reinchuck, said, "We really enjoyed putting the fish print on cloths." "We enjoyed Going Fishing because we did so well on the MCT testing last year," said Houston Tilley. The teachers also enjoyed the day. "We are a proud school of fish here at Waveland Elementary. It takes a team starting with excellent leadership from our principal, strong and dedicated teachers who believe every child can learn along with our wonderful students to be a Level 5 school. This school of fish has so much to celebrate," said Susan Genin. Rhonda Herrington said, "The students had a wonderful time going to the different centers set up outside for FISH Day. "I think it was a great way to reward their hard work and to celebrate their success."

The Bay High School Marching Band.

Bay High Band members show off their talents

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The Bay High School Marching Band recently competed in two competitions. The first competition was the State Band Marching Competition held at Milner Stadium in Gulfport, MS, on October 11.

The Band earned a rating of excellent which is the second highest possible score. The Drum Majors, Percussion, Guard, and Dance Team all received superior ratings.

The Bay High Tiger Pride Marching Band also competed in the Sixth Annual Gold Medal Classic Marching Band Competition. This event was held at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College Perkinston Campus on October 18. The Drum Majors earned a superior rating.

The Drum Line earned a superior rating, ranking second place in their division.

The Guard earned a superior rating, best in their division (out of fourteen squads), and second place out of twenty-two other squads. The Bay High Steppers dance team earned a superior rating, and overall best dance team. The Tiger Pride Marching Band placed seventh out of all the bands who participated. The BHS Band won the Most Spirited Award This means that they displayed the most class, courtesy, and positive energy as individuals and as a group.

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District is very proud of the BHS Tiger Pride Marching Band for their hard work and dedication this 2003 season.

Diamondhead Lions Club sponsors Peace Poster contest

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Students, ages 11, 12, and 13, from Hancock, Bay-Waveland, and Pass Christian Middle Schools are participating in the 16th Annual International Lions Club Peace Poster contest. This year's theme is, "Create A Brighter Tomorrow."

On September 11, 2001, our world changed. We awoke to the face of evil and the death of many innocents. It is time to help stem the tide of hatred that is erupting and spreading throughout the world today. What better way than to teach our children the beauty of peace.

Through the Peace Poster contest, Lions throughout the world are asking children what they think it would take to create a brighter tomorrow by bringing peace to the world and to express those thoughts visually on a poster. Through their eyes, we will see our future.

Students face stiff competition since their entries will be among more than 325,000 entries submitted worldwide.

Students use a variety of media such as charcoal, crayon, marker, paint, pastel, pencil, and ink. The works created are unique and express the young artist's life experience and culture.

Posters advance through several judging levels: local, district, and international. Posters are evaluated on artistic merit, portrayal of theme, and originality.

At the local level, judging by the Diamondhead Lions Club will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 28, 2003 at 2:00 p.m. at the Diamondhead Community Center. Judges will include the Club's President, Linda Mason, and Diamondhead Artists, Gene Sullivan, Suzanne Frank, Jane Cohen, and Dolores Tanner. The winning poster from each school will be sent to the Governor of Lions District 30-N, Billie Gross, in Carthage, MS, for district judging.

A representative group of students Peace Posters will be exhibited for public viewing at the following libraries:

November 1 thru 7 - Bay St. Louis Library
November 9 thru 14 - Pass Christian
November 16 thru 21 - Kiln Library

It is the wish of the Lions throughout the world that seeds of peace that will be born from this Peace Poster contest will be picked up by the Winds of change and distributed worldwide.

the start of the War of 1812 and there was much naval action between the large US Navy frigates and the British men of war. It was an exciting time to be in the navy and I looked forward to action and early promotion to Lieutenant.

But that was not to be. Instead of taking a ship out of Baltimore or Philadelphia, I was sent to the Gulf of Mexico and stationed in the backwater port of Bay St. Louis aboard a shallow water gunboat that didn't even have a name. In place of a name, it was called by its navy serial designation, No. 156. It was really just an over-size coastal cutter about 70 feet long.

Our captain was Lieutenant Thomas ap Catesby Jones a rather stubborn officer, who seemed to be afraid of no one. It was hard work patrolling all along the coast and sometimes in the Mississippi River, but mostly in the Mississippi Sound, working out of Bay St. Louis and getting our supplies from Mr. Shields Warehouse.

We saw a little action under Lieutenant Jones. he played decoy to a larger British ship of thirty-two guns so as to draw it away from another American warship. That was tough and go, I tell you.

Another time, he went into the Spanish port of Pensacola to challenge a British privateer and when he found it gone, turned around and came storming out after another one that was at the port's entrance. But mostly it was patrolling and trying to keep the gunboats in some type of shape.

In December 9, 1814 all this changed.

An immense British fleet anchored just outside ing against a strong westerly wind back to stand at the fort. We sailed all night until early on the morning of 14 December, the wind died. We were just a few miles west of the nets and shooting.

Lieutenant Jones fell fighting the boarders and I fell moments afterward. After some 10 minutes of fierce action with most of us dead or wounded 156 was taken. I was one of the dead.

Later, after the battle of New Orleans, the British exchanged prisoners and the bodies of those who were killed in the naval battle. Mine was one of these and I was buried under a large flat tombstone in St. Louis Cemetery No. 1.

But I come back here often to visit. Because it was here I spent the most exciting part of my eighteen years and it was here that I died.

the pass between Ship and Cat Islands and began to make signs that they were going to invade. Our Lieutenant Jones was made commander of our 156 and four other gunboats and ordered to observe the British activity, to delay their actions as much as possible, and when forced by enemy pressure, to fall back with his gunboats to a fort in The Rigolets and there he was to stand and "sink the enemy or be sunk."

On December 13, a large British force of 40 barges armed with cannon and over 1000 British sailors and marines came out to destroy we five gunboats. We backed off, head-

Bayou Caddy at a place called St. Joes Pass.

Lieutenant Jones turned the gunboats to form a broad front of battle, anchored them, had us put up boarding nets and we waited. He was making his stand and was following out his orders to "sink the enemy or be sunk."

At ten o'clock on a clear beautiful morning, the British attacked. Our anchor dragged and we drifted in front of the other gunboats. The British immediately concentrated on our gunboat with four barges loaded with men. We sunk two barges, but more came and their crews soon climbed up our sides hacking at

Gardening

They are very cold-tolerant and transplant to the garden with ease, lasting long into the warm season. Plants will grow 6 to 8 inches tall and are prolific bloomers that may have dozens of dime-sized flowers at one time.

Before planting your Sorbet or any other selection of viola, know they bloom best with full sun in beds with organically rich soil. Part shade is tolerated.

Prepare the bed before planting your violas by amending the soil with 3 to 4 inches of organic matter and tilling to a depth of 6 to 8 inches. Organic matter helps loosen the soil for better water penetration and aeration, leading to good root development.

Incorporate two pounds of a slow-release, 12-6-6 fertilizer per 100 square feet of bed space. Set out plants 6 to 8 inches apart, planting at the same depth they are growing in the container. Maintain a layer of mulch to keep soil temperatures moderate.

Violas and Johnny jump-ups are heavy feeders. Feed every four weeks with a light application of the 12-6-6 fertilizer, or every other week with a diluted, water-soluble, 20-20-20 or similar fertilizer. When you can, deadhead the old flowers a little to encourage more flower production.

In addition to these three new mixes, there are 35 colors or blends to choose from, so there should be a color to suit every palette and color combination. Remember to use them in combination with color from other cool-season plants like dianthus, flowering kale and cabbage. Red Giant mustard and snapdragons, and spring flowering bulbs like daffodils or tulips.

You may be a little reluctant to plant cool-season crops just yet because lantanas, salvias, petunias and verbenas are still looking good. But keep in mind that selections are greatest now. If you choose to wait until everything is frosted and cut back, select 6-inch containers of violas and pansies for their larger root systems.

es of traditional folk songs of the Canary Islands.

Performances were held outside, with and array of displays and demonstrations and ethnic food served buffet style inside.

Traditional arts and crafts demonstrations of the Choctaw tribe bead work and drum making, and Canary Island basket weavers drew crowds.

Arts and crafts and artifacts were on display from across the world and filled the atrium with colorful textiles, traditional musical instruments, hand carvings, and more.

Representatives from each country represented at the festival were on hand to answer questions about traditions or travel to the countries of their ethnic origin.

Lines were long to get a taste of traditional dishes from such diverse areas of the world as Greece, South and Central America, the Middle East, Asia, India, the Caribbean and our own southern area.

21 SSS named to TIP program

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Twenty-one St. Stanislaus seventh graders have been named Duke University Talent Identification Program (TIP) students, according to Brother Ronald Hingle, SC, Principal. The TIP students were selected earlier this month.

These students are pictured as follows. Bottom row (l-r) Brandon Cobb, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Armond Cobb III of Pass Christian, Mississippi; Ethan Hoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Hoff, Jr., of Gulfport, Mississippi; John Smuck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Allan Smuck of Diamondhead, Mississippi; Michael Johns, son of Ms. Angele Philibert Johns of Pass Christian, Mississippi; and Dr. Stephen Paul Johns of Gulfport, Mississippi; Justin Veazey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Charles Veazey of Pearl River, Louisiana; Matthew Mayeaux, son of Dr. and Mrs. Carl Anthony Mayeaux of Long Beach, Mississippi; and Jason Wong, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mo Leung Wong of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi.

Middle row (l-r) Solomon Twiggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sylvester Twiggs of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi; Will Cole, son of Ms. Sharon Davis Cole of Long Beach, Mississippi; and Mr.

St. Stanislaus College Duke University Talent Identification Program students.

William Charles Cole, Jr., of D'Iberville, Mississippi; Alex Puffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Judson Puffer of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi; Derek Miketinas, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Carrasco of Long Beach, Mississippi; and Mr. Gene Joseph Miketinas of Gulfport, Mississippi; Tyler Hughes, son of Mrs. Rosalyn C. Hughes of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi; Paul Hotard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Paul Hotard of Diamondhead, Mississippi; and Baylor Barnett, son of Mrs. Mary Mason of New Orleans, Louisiana; and Mr. Joseph Sullivan of Montrose, Alabama.

son of Mr. Patrick Francis Frank of Pass Christian, Mississippi; and Ms. Sandra Denn Muncy of Cookeville, Tennessee; Harry Clarke, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Richey Clarke, Jr., of Pass Christian, Mississippi; Cameron Bosley, son of Mr. and Mrs. David McKay Bosley of Waveland, Mississippi; Matthew McElhone, son of Ms. Tracey Lynn Elizabeth McElhone of Flower Mound, Texas; Guy Wood, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Wood of Pass Christian, Mississippi; and Jeff Haeger, son of Mr. Steve D. Haeger and Ms. Adrienne L. Haeger both of Pass Christian, Mississippi.

Vivaray Boyaton of Diamondhead, Mississippi.

These students were chosen to receive this honor because of the results they achieved on their standardized tests taken last year. They are thus eligible to take either the SAT or the ACT offered in December with high school students from throughout the country and compete for scholarship offers.

Saint Stanislaus College is a Catholic residency and day school for young men in grades 6-12.

The school fosters character formation and integrates faith development within a curriculum which is primarily college preparatory.

Hancock Middle School golf donation, workshop

Members of the Diamondhead Country Club Golf Committee recently donated six sets of used golf clubs, eight sets of new Wilson Sports clubs, and numerous golf balls to the physical education department at Hancock Middle School. Those on hand for the donation included (left to right) Teri Byrd, Golf Committee Member; Ralph Strader and Vivian Strader, Golf Committee Chairpersons; Jack O'Neill, Assistant Golf Pro; T.J. Byrd, Golf Committee Member; Neil Lollar, Assistant Golf Pro; Hoppy Smith, Diamondhead Country Club Golf Pro; and Debbie Williams, Hancock Middle School P.E. teacher. Immediately following the presentation of the clubs, the Diamondhead Country Club Golf Pro and his assistants provided the middle school physical education students with a golf workshop including individual instruction, strategies, and etiquette for the sport of golf.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

SACKCLOTH AND ASHES

WHENEVER SACKCLOTH AND ASHES ARE MENTIONED IN THE BIBLE, THE EVENT HAS TO DO WITH GREAT MOURNING AND REPENTANCE. THE FIRST MENTION IS IN GENESIS, CHAPTER 37, AN ACCOUNT OF JACOB'S GRIEF WHEN HE IS TOLD HIS SON JOSEPH HAS BEEN KILLED BY AN EVIL BEAST. THE ACTUAL GARMENT WAS A COARSE CLOTH MADE OF CAMELS OR GOAT'S HAIR. IT WAS VERY ROUGH MATERIAL AND THEREFORE UNCOMFORTABLE TO WEAR. ONLY THE POOR WORE IT. HABITUALLY, AS AN EVERYDAY GARMENT, OR ROUGH HERDSMEN, OR RAGGED PROPHETS FROM THE WILDERNESS. IT PROBABLY BECAME A SYMBOL FOR SORROW AND MOURNING BECAUSE THESE ANCIENT PEOPLE MANIFESTED THEIR GRIEF BY BRINGING DISCOMFORT TO THE FLESH. TO HEIGHTEN THEIR ABSOLUTE DESPAIR THEY ALSO SPRINKLED ASHES UPON THEIR HEADS. WE ARE TOLD IN THE BOOK OF JONAH THAT THE PEOPLE OF THE GREAT CITY OF NINEVEH, FROM THE KING ON DOWN TO THE LEAST OF BEGGARS, DONNED SACKCLOTH AND POURED ASHES OVER THEIR REPENTANT HEADS.

Are you into face-saving?

"This is not a good experience. This is a bad experience. But we may learn something about it that we can apply across the country. Our safety officials will go back and look at our protocol." Homeland Security Secretary Tom Ridge advised us with a sober, troubled mien.

He was being a master of the obvious. In any case, Nathaniel Heatwole's daring capers of smuggling potentially dangerous instruments aboard a number of Southwest Airlines passenger jets and hiding some in the rear lavatories had left egg on the face of all airlines security officials.

In their bumbling attempt to wipe the egg off their face, the officials then proceeded to smear it more, and acquired two black eyes in the process. Whereas the undisputed best way to begin to deal with a mistake or deficiency is to admit it is there, the safety officials went into quick denial.

The egg on their face and their two black eyes came about in the most foolish way, in that their denial was made through extremely clumsy efforts to discredit Nathaniel Heatwole and to decry his in-flight criminal activity.

Of course, there was something wrong with Heatwole, not with the officials.

Adding insult to injury, Nathaniel Heatwole advised the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) through his e-mail of his campaign to show flaws in air security. The e-mail further outlined to them that he was going to probe the airworthiness of security on several airlines.

The airlines safety officials and their minions cavalierly dismissed the 20-year-old Heatwole's e-mail as the mental meanderings of a fool. Folks, since when can anyone read the mind of an e-mailer by simply scanning the content, composition and style of an e-mail? That is certainly a feat far more difficult than reading tea leaves or animal entrails.

Shades of 911! Box-cutters alone remind us abruptly, bluntly that there are still legions of people out there who are determined to do whatever it takes to kill as many Americans as possible. Can top Homeland Security gun Tom Ridge possibly be unaware of this glaring, blood-curdling fact of life?

From the lowest minions to the very top airlines safety officials, there were not just flaws, but outright complacency, apathy and perhaps a bit of laziness. For instance, how could cleaning crews, not to mention inspectors, allow Heatwole's suspect packages to remain unnoticed for weeks at a time?

Why couldn't the officials

Reflections on Life
by Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

swallow their bitter pill, admit their serious shortcomings, and do what a number of companies have done when plagued by computer hackers? Those wise companies turned liabilities into assets by hiring the hackers to work for them and to thwart other prospective hackers.

Airline safety officials, by bending yourselves out of shape to save face, you are spurning a splendid opportunity to hire a razor-sharp intellectual and practical engineer from Guilford College in Greensboro, N.C. Obviously, you need a sharp, practical mind to find holes in your security system.

Do the right thing. Huddle with the Attorney General and with the appropriate judge and attorneys, and slap Nathaniel Heatwole with the brutal sentence of working for you, the airlines security officials.

Quite evidently, you do not have anyone presently working for you as competent as he.

While you may be loathe to call Nathaniel Heatwole a hero, in my mind he is beyond all doubt a hero. At the very least, you must call him a brave whistle-blower, and a highly useful one at that. Because of him, our airlines will be safer, not because of our safety officials, but in spite of them.

Down through the annals of history, whistle-blowers have been objects of persecution, suspicion, rejection and even hatred, especially by face-saving officials and their feckless minions who use whistle-blowers as scapegoats.

Face-saving and scapegoating rob us of precious knowledge and security.

Do we laugh when we remember the character who shipped himself in a box in the cargo hold of an airliner, foiling whatever alleged safeguards are in place to forestall any such incident? Or do we bite our nails, ruing the day we ever put our trust in airlines security officials to assure our safety?

The related phenomena of face-saving, scapegoating, whistle-blowing and the blame game are alive and well in all facets and areas of our lives.

One very painful, notorious instance is the recent history of sexual abuse of children by Catholic priests. Immediate disclosure would have avoided it all.

And so it goes for all of us, as many fallen business moguls and numerous beleaguered politicians would be quick to tell us.

The sooner we forget about the egg on our face, the sooner we desist from trying to save face, the sooner we admit all our failings, the sooner relief and solution loom on the horizon.

The "Word" for the Week
Reformation Day Riches

Dennis J. Prutow • Box 303, Sterling, KS 67579

A sociologist from Washington University discussed the negative effects of perverse male behavior in our society as related to rape, incest, sexual harassment, and pornography.

His point was that these perverse behaviors display how the myth of male dominance is played out in our society. That was his point.

He also spoke of the rise of this behavior in the last 20 years. He gave many statistics and examples to back up his claim. The lecture ended with a short exhortation to work toward the reduction of such behaviors.

I left the lecture with two thoughts. First, there has been a dramatic rise in violent crime, including rape. In the past 30 years, there has been a 560 percent increase in violent crime. Now, one in every four women in America may experience rape. The statistics are staggering. But during the last 20 years, what else has happened?

There is less prayer in public places. The Bible and the standards of the Bible have been taken out of our schools. The Ten Commandments and the morality of the Ten Commandments have been taken from our young people, in many cases, by court order.

We are reaping the results of this turn away from God and the Bible. Second, the sociologist outlined the problem all right, but he did not give a solution.

The real solution involves a revival of Christianity. It involves reformation. This means lives changed by the power of God as He changes human hearts. God changes rapists and pornographers into different people. Such a Reformation began in Europe on Oct. 31, 1517. It can occur today in America. It is much needed today in America.

Scripture Says . . .

By Ed Young

GOD CAN'T BE GIVEN A PROBLEM THAT HE CANNOT SOLVE. Jesus said to his disciples; "...with men, this is impossible; but with God, all things are possible" (Matt. 19: 26)

GOD CAN'T FORSAKE YOU. "...and be content with such things as you have; for He hath said, 'I will never leave you, nor forsake you.'" (Hebrews 13: 5)

GOD CAN'T GIVE HIS GLORY TO ANYONE ELSE. "I am the Lord, that is my name: and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images." (Isa. 42: 8)

GOD CAN'T STAND SIN. "But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that He will not hear." (Isa. 59: 2)

GOD CAN'T LEAVE WORK UNFINISHED. "Being confident of this very thing, that he which has begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ." (Philippians 1: 6)

GOD CAN'T FORGET ABOUT YOU. "Can a woman forget her sucking child, that she should not have compassion on the son of her womb? yea, they may forget, yet will I not forget thee." (Isa. 49: 15)

GOD CAN'T BE PUT ON A TIME SCHEDULE. "And He said unto them, It is not for you to know the times or the seasons which the Father hath put in his own power." (Acts 1: 7)

GOD CAN'T BE UNKNOWN TO THOSE WHO WANT TO KNOW HIM. "And ye shall seek me and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart." (Jeremiah 29: 13)

GOD CAN'T MAKE A LOSER. "Now thanks be unto God, which always causes us to triumph in Christ." (II Cor. 2: 14)

GOD CAN'T BE EQUALED. "...understand that I am He: before me there was no God formed, neither shall there be after me. I, even I am the Lord; and beside me there is no savior." (Isa. 43: 10, 11)

This is just part of the message Christ wants to give the world about some of the attributes the Almighty has.

Former student gives $3.75 million to PRCC

Donation is largest cash gift ever given to Mississippi community, junior college

A former Pearl River College student and Poplarville area native has given Pearl River Community College $3.75 million - the largest cash gift ever presented to a Mississippi community or junior college.

The late Ethel Holden Brownstone, one of 11 children and the daughter of James Houston and Florence Holden of the White Sand community, left the money to PRCC in her will before her death on Oct. 17, 1996. She was the wife and widow of Lucien Brownstone, a resident of New York City.

Lucien Brownstone was in the garment business and owned 26 men's clothing stores around the country. He was also a Wall Street investor, philanthropist and Patron of the Arts. The Brownstones had no children.

"It's a privilege to be involved in something this important and this significant," said PRCC President William Lewis. "The Pearl River Community College family is indeed grateful. Our institution will reap the benefits of this gift for years to come."

Ethel Holden was a student at Pearl River County Agricultural High School and Junior College in 1930-31. The 1931 Satsuma, the school yearbook at the time, shows that she was involved in many school activities, including the Reveille Society, Girl Reserve Club, Commercial Club and the Seco Club.

"Ethel was the most generous person I've ever known," said Ethel Ladner of the Carnes Community. "We corresponded a good bit with each other."

She would always say, "Do you need a little gift? I would tell her no, and she would still send a little gift."

Ladner's late husband, James Calvin Ladner, was Ethel Holden's nephew.

The Brownstones would occasionally visit the Ladners, and they would attend church together at Sand Hill Baptist in Carnes.

According to Martin Smith, Board of Trustees attorney at PRCC, the cash contribution comes after several years of court proceedings contesting Ethel Brownstone's will.

When Lucien Brownstone died in 1970, he left a will that established two trusts. The income from both trusts went to his wife. Upon her death, one of the trusts went to the Lucien and Ethel Brownstone Foundation in New York City.

"The other trust was also left to the foundation, but it also provided that she had the power of appointment," said Smith. "She could designate that the proceeds go to someone else in her own will, including Pearl River Community College and several churches and charities."

In her residuary estate, that being the proceeds from the trust, she left one fourth to Pearl River Community College, one fourth to three Baptist churches (White Sand Baptist Church in Pearl River County, Sand Hill Baptist Church in Carnes and Calvary Baptist Church in New York City), and the other to charities and teaching hospitals in New York City.

"White Sand was her family church, she was raised in that church," said Smith. "When she would come down to visit, she would attend both of those churches here."

The Ladners live across the street from Sand Hill Baptist, which is using a portion of its $1.2 million gift for renovations. "Ethel loved that church," said Ladner. "She was all the time sending $500 or $600 to the church. Lucien was Jewish, but he would go to church with Ethel when they came."

Ladner said Ethel Holden, who died at the age of 80, never forgot her roots after she moved to New York City. Ladner said Ethel Holden's older sister Kate was responsible for Holden moving to New York.

"Kate was an interior decorator who went to work in New York," said Ladner. "She would come home, get one of the sisters and move them to New York to live. That's how Ethel ended up there. She was a window dresser at Bloomingdale's at one time. That's how she met Lucien."

Ladner said she and her husband, James Calvin, visited the Brownstones a couple of times in New York. "They had a Park Avenue apartment," she said. "I tell you, Ethel Brownstone did not realize how rich she was."

The Brownstone contribution is the largest gift presented to Pearl River Community College since Tatum Land Management Limited of Hattiesburg donated 36 acres of land within the city limits of Hattiesburg to Pearl River College in 1987.

PRCC's Forrest County Center, on Highway 49 South, sits on that acreage.

10th Annual Art in Park generates over $30,000

More than $30,000 in sales from artists and food vendors was generated by Pass Christian's 10th annual Collage Art in the Park, held Sept. 27 and 28 in War Memorial Park.

That means extra tax revenue for the city, and the annual festival "brought a lot of new artists and visitors into town," said chairman Kathie Short.

The nonprofit festival, in which some 80 artists exhibited and sold their original creations, was attended by several thousand persons and was described as "the best attendance in many years," according to festival organizers.

A major aspect of the festival is the Silent Auction, to which each artist must donate one piece of work. Proceeds support the $1,000 Dot Hector Memorial Art Scholarship which is presented to a Pass Christian High School student who plans to major in art in college. Last year's recipient was Stacey Steube.

A new feature this year was the artists' booth competition, based on: display and presentation, courtesy and friendliness to the public, outstanding marketing, price and value in relation to the art, and uniqueness and originality.

Booths were judged by unidentified persons not related to the festival and who do not reside in Pass Christian.

Winners of the booth competition were: first place, Jimmy Stroud, a photographer from Gautier; second place, Becky Dennis of Gulfport who makes handmade clay hangings, sculpture, vases and necklaces; third place, watercolorist Chris Hartsfield of Waveland; and fourth place, Randy Fountain, a wood turner from Vancleave.

Honorable mention

awards went to Louise Jordan of New Orleans, La., watercolor; Linda Laird of Pass Christian, red clay functional pottery; Larry McHenry of Slidell, La., cypress lawn furniture, wind chimes and yard art; Hillary Moulliet of Ocean Springs, love notes, and birthday and baby plaques; Coygon Robinson Jr. of Biloxi, mixed media, 2-dimensional; Steve Shepard of Gautier, works in prismacolor, ink and graphite; Tandy Sibley of Hammond, La., mosaics; and Sid and Pamela Yoder of Bay St. Louis, sterling silver semiprecious stone jewelry and sun catchers.

The festival is held annually during the last weekend in September. Sponsors include Pass Christian Chamber of Commerce, the city of Pass Christian, Harrison County Board of Supervisors, Pass Christian Wal-Mart, and Garden Park Medical Center.

School District, 201 Carroll Avenue, Bay Saint Louis, MS 39520.

The specifications for the project are entitled
"Replace Entertainment Lighting and Sound
Systems at Bay High School Auditorium, Bay Saint Louis, Mississippi," and consist of 53 pages dated October 15, 2003. The total amount bid, including the base bid and all discrete alternatives.

The project is to provide labor and materials to replace entertainment lighting and sound systems, including, but not limited to replacing theatrical lighting control system, replacing theatrical lighting fixtures, replacing work lighting, and replacing the sound system.
Contract Documents may be examined at the Bay Saint Louis/Waveland School District, 201
Carroll Avenue, Bay Saint Louis, Mississippi.
Copies of the documents may be obtained at the Bay Saint Louis/Waveland School District or the office of Engineered Lighting &
Sound, Post Office Box 550, Bay Saint Louis, MS 39520, upon payment of $25.00, which includes shipping and handling for each CD ROM. Return of the CD ROM is not required, and the amount paid for the CD ROM is not refundable. For information regarding this project, contact Engineered Lighting & Sound's office at 228-255-9008, in Diamondhead, Mississippi.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish the necessary additional bond(s) for the faithful performance of the Contract, as prescribed in the Contract Documents. All performance bond, payment and bond certification number or a licensee executed by or countersigned by a licensed resident agent of the surety or insurance company having the place of business in the State of Mississippi and in all ways complying with the insurance laws of the State of Mississippi.
Further, the said surety or insurance company shall be duly licensed and qualified to do business in the State of Mississippi.

In order to perform work for projects over $50,000, the successful bidder shall, as applicable, hold or obtain such Contractor, and business license as required by state statutes including certification of responsibility required by Section 31-3-21, Mississippi Code of 1972, as amended, and a license number or a statement that the Bid is less than $50,000 shall appear on the outside or exterior of the envelope or container of such bids, failing which the bid shall be rejected. The Contractor shall be responsible for the size and type of work specified under this Contract. Upon request, the bidder shall submit such information as deemed necessary by the Owner to evaluate the bidder's qualifications.

It is called to the attention of the Bidder that the time of completion of the work under this Contract shall be as stated in the Contract.
The right is reserved to reject all bids or any bid not conforming to the intent and purpose of Contract Documents, and to postpone the award of the Contract for a period of time which, however, shall not extend beyond 90 days from the bid opening date.

Orchestra Sinfonica, Nancy Ross to appear in D'head

Diamondhead Performing Arts Society presents third show of season Nov. 2

NANCY ROSS

The Diamondhead Performing Arts Society will present Orchestra Sinfonica e da Camera di Benevento e del Sannio and Nancy Ross on Nov. 2 at 7 p.m. at the Diamondhead Country Club.

Formed in 1991, the first and most representative group of Benevento and Sannio, southern Italy, this orchestra is present at all important events organized in the area.

The orchestra has also made successful tours in other parts of Italy, Germany, Finland, Hungary, Slovacchia, Austria, Mexico and the United States. This group has performed in such important concert hall as the Sibelius Academy in Helsinki, the Great Hall of Bonn University, the Minoriten Kirche in Vienna and Abravanel Hall in Salt Lake City.

Many of the orchestra's performances have been recorded by important television networks such as France 2, RAI 1 and the Fox Television USA.

An enchanting evening is assured when soprano Nancy Ross appears on stage.

Ross has been praised for her musicianship and versatility on the operatic, operetta, musical theater and concert stages across the United States and in Europe. Her Lyric Coloratura voice has been critically acclaimed as clear, supple and lovely while a recent performance of La Traviata garnered "as fine as any I have heard live."

She has sung principal roles with New Orleans Opera, Opera Athens, Jefferson Performing Arts Society, Tampa Opera, Baton Rouge Opera, Ohio Light Opera and Lecco Opera Festival.

Tickets will be available at the door the night of the performance.

ORCHESTRA SINFONICA E DA CAMERA DI BENEVENTO E DEL SANNIO

Gladys Knight to perform at Bay Magic Nov. 14-15

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Grammy-award winning Motown legend Gladys Knight is set to perform at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis Nov. 14-15 at 9 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased for $29.95, $34.95 and $39.95 through the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 800-5-MAGIC-5 or through any Ticketmaster Outlet.

At the age of 4, she began singing as a guest soloist in church. At age 7 she won the Grand Prize on Ted Mack's Amateur Hour, and the following year, she, along with her brother Bubba, her sister Brenda, and her cousins, William and Elinor Guest, formed The Pips.

In 1959, Brenda and Elinor left the group, replaced by cousin Edward Patten and friend Langston George.

The group was renamed Gladys Knight and the Pips, and following Langston's departure in 1962, the classic line-up was in place.

With Gladys singing lead and the Pips providing lush harmonies and graceful choreography, the group went on to achieve icon status, having recorded some of the most memorable songs of the 60's, 70's, and 80's.

Their hits include: "I Heard It Through The Grapevine," "If I Were Your Woman," "Neither One of Us (Wants To Be The First To Say Goodbye)," "I've Got To Use My Imagination," "Best Thing That Ever Happened to Me," and the No. 1 smash "Midnight Train to Georgia."

Gladys enjoyed another No. 1 hit in 1985 when she teamed with Stevie Wonder, Elton John, and Dionne Warwick on "That's What Friends Are For."

All told, Gladys Knight has recorded over 36

albums over the years, including four solo albums during the past decade.

Essential Pointers for Confident Cold-Weather Travel

All vehicles need attention from time to time, but during the winter your car needs extra care. For confident winter starts, it is important to watch three critical areas of your car or truck: the lubrication system, the cooling system and the battery. Let's take a quick look under the hood to see if you're ready for Old Man Winter's worst.

CHECK YOUR MOTOR OIL

It is important to check your motor oil levels regularly. Without lubrication, friction between moving parts leads to engine wear, which can leave you standing out in the cold — literally. There is no sense in being stranded on an isolated road because your engine couldn't turn over. However, it is also important to think about the type of motor oil you are using. For severe cold, there is a significant performance difference between synthetic and conventional motor oil.

Cold weather is tough on engines because of the limitations of traditional lubricants. In frigid temperatures, motor oils and greases thicken, slowing starting RPM, restricting oil flow to critical engine parts, increasing wear on bearings and rings, decreasing engine life and increasing the burden on an already overtaxed starting system.

In such weather conditions, only synthetic motor oils offer the kind of performance that allows cars and trucks to start with ease. Many synthetic motor oils still flow or pump at temperatures as low as -60 F or -70 F. Synthetics have a broader service range than traditional petroleum.

CHECK YOUR

ANTIFREEZE

Most drivers are aware that inadequate antifreeze in the engine's cooling system can result in serious damage to their vehicles. Water expands as it freezes, putting stress on the corridors where it travels. A cracked engine block is not unlikely in extreme cold. Water pump failure and damaged hoses are also common side effects of a frozen cooling system.

There are a number of relatively inexpensive antifreeze testers available for measuring the effective working temperature of your antifreeze. If you can't afford one of these gauges, be sure to have the radiator fluid checked at your local service station to make sure it is suitable for severe cold temperatures.

In recent years, there has been a growing awareness of the hazards associated with traditional ethylene glycol (EG) antifreeze. Not merely considered an environmental hazard, it can be deadly for pets and children who come into contact with it accidentally.

A safer alternative is the new propylene glycol-based antifreeze which is generally regarded as less harmful in case of accidental ingestion. Unlike EG-based antifreezes, which have a sweet taste that can entice pets and young children, propylene glycol antifreeze has an unpleasant taste, making it less likely that animals or children will drink any appreciable amount.

The new formula also provides excellent protection against freezing, boiling and corrosion.

CHECK YOUR BATTERY

The ideal operating temperature of your car battery is 80 F. As temperatures drop, so does the efficiency of the battery. In very cold weather, the battery's power output can be diminished to as little as 10 percent.

As batteries age, their strength is further reduced. When it is very cold and your older battery has lost a measure of its cranking capacity, it may not have the power to turn over the engine.

BE PREPARED

Frigid winter starts are harsh. In addition to routine maintenance checks, you may want to have a few supplies on hand, including a shovel, a bag of sand or grit, a toolbox, jumper cables, fuel de-icer additive, a large flashlight and road flares.

Extra blankets, clothes, food, fluids and a first aid kit offer an insurance policy that, with luck, you'll never need, but can't afford to be without.

Good snow tires and a few seasons of experience driving on slippery roads also helps, as well as knowing when not to attempt driving at all. No doubt there are times when it's best to take counsel of the wise poet, sage and motorist who prayed, "Grant me the serenity to accept the weather I cannot change, the courage to accept the weather I cannot change, and the wisdom to know the difference."

How to Be Prepared for an Accident

It can happen in a split second. Whether driving to the grocery store or cross-country, auto accidents can happen to anyone. In fact, the National Center for Statistics and Analysis (NCSA) reports that 6,277,000 non-fatal crashes occurred in the United States in 2002.

Do you know what to do if you are in an accident? Read on to learn how to be prepared. First, remain calm and stop your car in a safe and visible place. If your car cannot be moved, turn on the hazard lights and turn off the ignition. Be careful when exiting your car. Most important, find out if anyone is injured.

Do not move a seriously injured person. Call the police immediately, even if the accident appears minor.

Write down the other car's year, make, model and license plate number. In the event that the other person drives away, you will still have some information to report to police. Next, get the driver's name, address and license number, and the name of his or her insurance company. If the driver is not the owner, get the owner's name.

Get the names and addresses of other passengers or witnesses.

Next, take note of specific details. Accident circumstances, time of day, location, weather conditions and visibility are all crucial details that you will likely be asked for police and insurance reports.

Write it down now before the details get fuzzy.

Notify your insurance agent about the accident immediately. Even if you are at fault, do not admit it to the other driver or police until you have contacted your insurance agent. Do not accept any money or sign anything unless it is for the police or your insurance agent.

Being involved in an accident will always be a complicated and frightening experience.

But if you know what to do after it happens, you will save yourself a lot of time and stress down the road.

IN CASE OF EMERGENCY

These items are essential to have on hand in case you are involved in an auto accident. Keep them in your car or truck at all times:

- A pen and paper. Essential for writing down important information.
- A fully charged cell phone. This will serve as your lifeline. When trouble strikes on the road, having a working phone handy will quickly put you in touch with area police, fire and rescue personnel.

- A disposable camera. Use this to immediately take pictures of the damage to your vehicle for your records.

WHETHER DRIVING across town or across the county, auto accidents can happen to anyone. Learn how to be prepared.

Today's Collision Repair Business Professionals Can Do More

It's a common misconception that once your vehicle has been damaged in a collision, it will never drive or perform the same again. Chances are it wasn't an insurance company representative or an employee of a collision repair business who said this. That's because every day, collision repair industry professionals return collision-damaged vehicles to their previous condition both structurally and cosmetically.

So what does it take to repair your vehicle properly after a collision? Because of today's complex vehicles and high-quality paint finishes, technicians need to be properly trained in all aspects of the repair process to ensure complete and safe repairs. Following is a closer look at what it entails:

The repair process begins when a detailed estimate is prepared, indicating all of the repairs needed. In some cases, this requires removing damaged body panels or other parts to ensure the most accurate initial estimate possible. The parts listed on the estimate are then ordered. The collision repair business and your insurance company should explain whether the replacement parts are new parts ordered from the manufacturer of your vehicle, used parts ordered through an automotive recycler or new parts built by a company other than your vehicle's manufacturer. Your repair technician or insurance representative should also explain the pros and cons of using each of these types of parts.

If your vehicle was hit hard in the collision, the repair facility should use a measuring system that checks specific points of your vehicle structure against dimensions provided by the vehicle or equipment manufacturer. The facility will also need to measure your vehicle several times during the repair process to make sure it is within the recommended tolerances. Some vehicles today require a tolerance no greater than one millimeter, while most allow up to three millimeters — the thickness of three dimes.

Whenever appropriate, original parts are fixed, but severely damaged parts need to be replaced. A properly trained technician can repair sheet metal and plastic so that it can be difficult, if not impossible, to find any indication of damage. In some cases, parts not included on the estimate may need to be ordered during the repair process if unforeseen damage is found.

After repairs are complete, the vehicle is ready to be painted. The areas to be painted are first prepared; repaired areas are finely sanded, then primed and coated with corrosion protection products. Areas that are not to be painted are "masked off" for protection. The painter then uses a special system to mix the color that will match your vehicle's finish.

A paint code on your car or truck provides the starting point, but it generally requires a trained eye to match the paint exactly. The paint is applied inside a spray booth designed to keep dust and other contaminants off the new finish.

Once the painting is complete, the vehicle is reassembled with all trim pieces, decals and stripes. If any new glass is needed, it is usually installed at this point. The wheel alignment will also be checked if the collision damage was severe, if the vehicle spun or if a tire or wheel was damaged. This helps catch any potential problems with the steering and suspension parts.

Finally, your vehicle is taken to the detailing area for a thorough interior and exterior cleaning. Any minor imperfections in the new paint surface will be removed by polishing and buffing. A final check is made to ensure all work meets the repair facility's standards, and the final paperwork is prepared for the vehicle owner and insurer.

Throughout this process, the repair facility will be in contact with the insurance company handling the claim. The insurer may want to review the estimate and inspect the vehicle before or during the repair process. In some cases, the repair facility may need to obtain insurer and vehicle owner approval before completing additional necessary repairs not included on the initial estimate.

Locating a collision repair business that will provide quality service is important for any vehicle owner. Insurers and collision repair business owners alike say the key is looking for evidence of properly trained technicians. Technicians can learn how to properly repair a collision-damaged vehicle one of two ways — through training or by making mistakes. Do you want a collision repair technician "learning" on your vehicle?

One sign of a properly trained technician is the I-CAR® Gold Class Professionals® designation. This designation signifies that the business has completed a significant amount of training by I-CAR, an international not-for-profit organization which provides the industry's most comprehensive collision repair training, covering virtually every aspect of the repair process including analyzing the damage, structural repair processes, corrosion protection, steel and aluminum welding, matching your vehicle's paint finish, and checking safety features such as airbag deployment, seatbelts and anti-lock braking systems.

I-CAR-trained insurance and collision repair professionals share a common understanding of required repair methods, allowing them to work together to properly repair your vehicle. This leads to the most consistent, efficient and high-quality repairs.

For the location of an I-CAR Gold Class Professionals repair facility in your area, visit www.i-car.com or call (800) 422-7872.

Say What?

Vehicle Identification Number (VIN): This number breaks down your vehicle to illustrate such things as engine size, body style, model year, transmission type and color. The most common place to find your VIN is on a small metal plate attached to the driver's side of the dashboard. Other places where you might find the VIN number include: your owner's manual; stamped on the frame under the front hood; on a sticker on the driver's side door pillar; on the state vehicle registration certificate; on the vehicle title of ownership; on the price sticker or on a label in the luggage/spare tire area. If the tag is missing, chances are the vehicle has been damaged and repaired, or was most likely stolen.

High Tech Sensors Can Help

You Can Reduce the Risk of Backup Accidents

No matter how careful you are, backing up a trailer, camper, boat trailer or RV can be a challenge to even the most experienced drivers. Nationwide statistics show that a U.S. driver is involved in a backing accident every 90 seconds.

They're caused by the simple fact that the driver cannot see what is behind his or her vehicle.

According to a joint study by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) and Department of Transportation (DOT), there were approximately 182,000 police-reported backing accidents in 1990, with 185 fatalities. According to the study, the majority occurred because the driver could not see the obstacle, a fact which indicates that many of these accidents are preventable.

If there was technology that could alert you in advance of a rear collision, wouldn't it be worth its cost if it prevented even one accident or injury?

That technology does exist, and it's available for any new or used RV or trailer: the Rostra Obstacle Sensing System (ROSS), from Rostra Precision Controls Inc. is specifically designed for RVs and trailers up to 40 feet in length. The NHTSA estimates that a rear obstacle detection system can help drivers reduce the risk of back-up accidents by more than 90 percent.

"An RV or boat is a major investment. This system can help protect it," said Thomas Weiss, vice president of Rostra's automotive electronics group. "This is a relatively simple, inexpensive device that can save thousands of dollars on repairs and insurance rates."

The system offers drivers improved safety by helping eliminate blind spots within 12 feet of the vehicle's rear. This protects pedestrians and reduces damage to the vehicle from backing into objects that aren't in clear view.

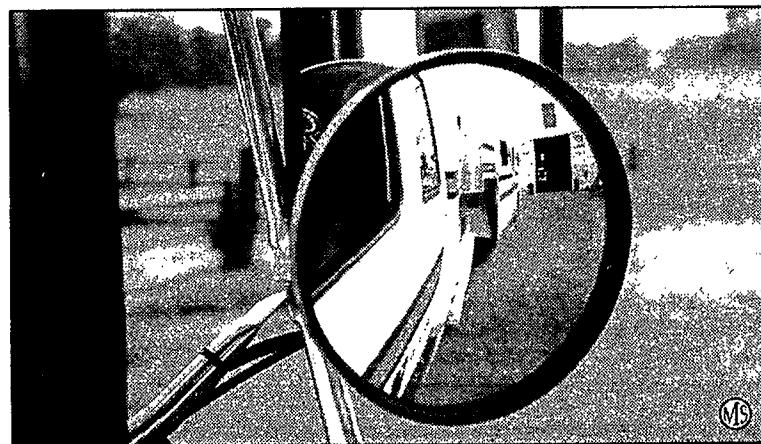

While obstacle sensing systems have been around in various forms for some time, no other system is as effective in all weather conditions as the ROSS, because it uses microwave technology and is unaffected by rain, snow, sleet, darkness or sun glare — conditions in which alternate systems often fail.

The system alerts the driver through a series of beeps that increase in volume and frequency as the object draws closer. And ROSS sensors aren't affected by salt or fresh water, even when completely submerged, making the system ideal for boat trailers.

Available through dealers and automotive equipment distributors, the system has a three-year, 36,000-mile warranty.

Professional installation is recommended for RV applications, although most do-it-yourselfers can probably handle a trailer installation.

For more information, call (800) 782-3379; write to Rostra at 2519 Dana Drive, Laurinburg, NC 28352; or visit www.rostra.com.

THE NATIONAL HIGHWAY TRAFFIC SAFETY Administration (NHTSA) estimates that an obstacle detection system like the can help drivers reduce the risk of back-up accidents by more than 90 percent.

Avoid Coolant-Hose Failure

Maintenance Now Can Prevent Problems Later

In recent years, service technicians around the country have been confounded by the unexpected failures of radiator, heater and thermostat by-pass hoses in relatively low-mileage passenger vehicles. These failures often occurred in the winter months, with little or no sign of exterior deterioration of the hose.

THE PROBLEM DEFINED

The first insight into the cause of these unexplained failures came when Gates Corporation engineers identified the primary cause of coolant hose failure as an electrochemical attack on the rubber tube compound in the hose.

This chemical reaction causes micro-cracks in the hose tube, allowing the coolant to attack and weaken the hose reinforcement. Accelerated by high heat and flexing, the hose can develop a pinhole leak or rupture under normal pressure.

CONTRIBUTING FACTORS

Generally, upper radiator hoses and heater hoses show more damage than lower hoses, with the most severe damage observed in the tube area within one to two inches of either end of the hose.

Engine hoses that are subjected to any extended amount of stop-and-go, engine idle or "on-off" conditions show earlier and more severe electrochemical degradation (ECD). Hot summer driving conditions also contribute to hose failures.

PREVENTING FAILURE

Gates engineers emphasize that it's not uncommon to find premature hose failures due to electrochemical damage in vehicles driven less than 25,000 miles.

From a car owner's perspective, the timely replacement of a coolant hose can prevent an emergency breakdown on a highway, as well as costly engine damage. Today's engines run at higher temperatures, which means if the hose fails and coolant is lost, overheating occurs almost immediately.

To address the damage caused by ECD, manufacturers such as Gates have developed electrochemically-resistant coolant hoses using new EPDM synthetic-rubber formulations. The new hoses offer improved performance characteristics over standard rubber hoses.

TORTUOUS. SUMMER DRIVING can accelerate engine coolant hose failure this winter. Gates Corporation engineers say if a car is four years old the upper and lower radiator hoses and the bypass hose should be replaced during routine service this fall.

To be safe, Gates engineers recommend that coolant hoses be replaced every four years, especially the upper radiator and heater hoses.

SERVICE TIPS

ECD is evident in almost all cooling system hoses. The most severe damage occurs where the temperature is hottest and air is present with the coolant, which is why upper radiator hoses tend to fail first.

In a national survey, consumers reported that two to three times as many radiator hoses failed while driving in their vehicle's fifth year than its fourth, so a replacement interval of four years for all coolant-carrying hoses — especially the upper radiator, bypass and heater hoses — can help prevent unexpected failure from ECD.

BETTER SAFE THAN SORRY

If your car is four years old or older, consider these points when having it serviced this fall:

A hose on the verge of failure rarely fails in the driveway or in the repair shop — it usually fails on the road, whether on a busy city street or a lonely country highway. The cost of a tow usually exceeds the cost of replacing a hose.

Avoid serious, more expensive damage. Older cast iron engines could take overheating better than today's mostly aluminum engines. An overheated engine due to a coolant hose failure can quickly warp several expensive engine components.

Changing most coolant hoses is simple and fast. It's also less expensive if other cooling system work — such as replacing the water pump or engine belts — is already being performed.

Tips for Older Drivers

Driving gives a sense of freedom and independence from the moment you get a license. But sooner or later, you might have to forgo those luxuries for the safety of others. Of course, no one wants to stop driving, but it's not worth the risk of being a threat to others and yourself. According to the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), physical changes that happen to older people, such as loss of vision, hearing and physical strength, can go unnoticed until a driving emergency arises. About 20 percent of people 55 and over have impaired hearing and about 30 percent of people 65 and over are hearing impaired.

Here are a few tips to help seniors stay safe on the road:

- Think ahead — map out your trip in advance so you don't have to take a test drive in the daylight. Try not to drive in heavy traffic during rush hour or bad weather.

- Keep your radio at a low volume or off. Minimize chats with passengers and don't daydream.

- Clean the inside and outside of your windshield and windows, as well as the mirrors. Turn on the lights in rain, poor weather conditions, a half hour before sunset and a half hour after sunrise.

- Use day/night settings on the rearview mirror to cut down on headlight glare.

- Keep wiper blades clean and replace them when they start to wear, streak or smear your windshield.

- Use mirrors to see what's around your car when parking, changing lanes or moving in reverse.

- Get annual eye exams to make sure you have the right glasses prescription. Take a driver refresher course to keep you on top of your skills.

A Faster, Better, Stronger Car

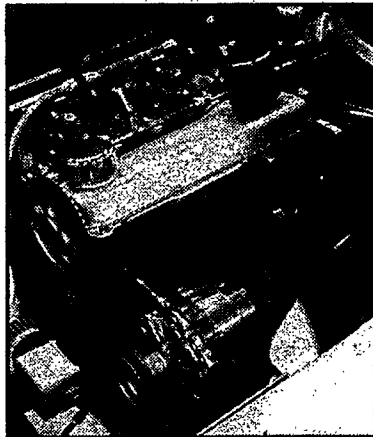

High-Output Alternators Improve Energy Efficiency and Performance

Do your headlights dim to a flicker when you turn the megawatt stereo on full blast? Does your battery go dead at the slightest opportunity? Do other electrically-operated options cause your vehicle's entire electrical system to go on strike? If so, your car, truck or SUV may be suffering from electrical anemia.

"If your vehicle absorbs amps like hot chocolate on a cold morning, you might want to consider upgrading your alternator — which produces all the electricity your vehicle uses — to one with greater capacity," says Fred Padgett, product manager for Robert Bosch Starting and Charging Products.

"This cure for an overloaded electrical system could turn your struggling vehicle into a powerful go-getter."

For many vehicles suffering from electrical anemia, high-powered alternators are available to replace the original unit and save the situation. Bosch, for instance, offers alternators for vehicles that need more amperage to meet the needs of their driving conditions. Such needs often grow during winter driving, according to Padgett.

"SUVs, sport or compact vehicles, the family car loaded with power options, extra lighting and electronics, campers, delivery vehicles or trucks with electrical attachments, muscle cars, tow vehicles and weekend racers all use a lot of electricity. This is especially true when the extra electrical accessories kick in — even if the engine is idling.

But high-output alternators can improve the situation dramatically," Padgett says.

Special "enhanced capacity" alternators available from Bosch, for instance, include heavy-duty alternators that replace "IAR" alternators installed on most Ford 4 cylinder, 6 cylinder and V-8 engines from 1984 to 1995.

Bosch high-output replacement alternators will produce enough energy all day to keep the essential equipment operating as needed on tow vehicles and campers.

They are especially useful for a variety of sport compact vehicles as well as many popular "tuner" vehicles. These alternators, many cranking out up to 200 amps, are bolt-in replacements for the original alternator.

Performance-oriented alternators can also replace the original compact Delco "CS" alternators installed in Corvettes, Camaros, Firebirds and many Chevrolet/GMC (and now Cadillac) trucks. These units are real-world rated at 100 amps, and eliminate the heat-related bearing failures and shorts in the stator windings associated with the small original units.

Heavy-duty, 150-amp alternators for many Dodge vehicles equipped with the Hemi engine will easily handle the extra requirements of a multitude of attachments and extra lighting, camper accessories or off-road adventures. These alternators crank out 90 amps at idle, which can be as important as maximum amperage available.

"Many of these high-output alternators include strength and durability features such as a sealed brush box, heavy-duty, high-tolerance bearings, superior-duty diode rectifier plates, greatly enhanced ability to dissipate heat, and overall design and construction that will live under high stress and vibration environments," Padgett says.

Designed to bolt in, most use the original wiring and brackets. And they really perform, at idle or at high engine speeds.

All alternators are backed by the Bosch Ultimate Protection Plan, which means that if any Bosch alternator fails within two years of its installation, you can get a free jump-start or tow, if necessary, from an authorized Bosch service provider.

ELIMINATE POWER DRAIN, IMPROVE PERFORMANCE

"While you're at it, it's a good idea to make sure the vital vehicular components using the electricity produced by the alternator are not making it work harder than it should," Padgett says. "If your spark plugs or the wires that feed them from the distributor are worn and questionable, they could be draining power to keep the plugs firing and the engine running — as well as draining performance from everyday driving."

According to Padgett, worn, cracked or brittle ignition wires covered with grease and road grime can cause intermittent engine failure and stalling. He recommends stainless steel Mag winding wires such as those in Bosch's Premium Wire Sets.

These wires deliver maximum voltage to the spark plug for a hotter, more powerful, and longer spark. This gives optimum engine performance while reducing the chance for misfire. It also eliminates radio static. And their 100 percent pure silicone jacket resists oil penetration, offering lifetime protection against wire set failure.

Spark plugs, of course, are essential to the internal combustion gasoline engine, and over time and thousands of miles they often become worn and operate less efficiently. If sufficiently worn or contaminated with carbon deposits and soot, they can cease operating altogether or function only sporadically.

"If you are replacing the spark plugs, consider upgrading to premium plugs. Tests have shown that premium plugs such as Bosch's Platinum +4 spark plugs can improve fuel economy by as much as 5 percent, while improving performance and driving pleasure," Padgett says.

"And premium plugs such as these, with a pure platinum center electrode, preset 'surface air gap' ground electrodes and nickel-chrome coating, maintain their superior performance for tens of thousands of miles. They start and idle better, accelerate faster and often pay for themselves in fuel economy improvements alone in a year of driving."

Make the Most of Your Test Drive

After months of talking to people, reading books and researching online, you have finally decided what car you want. You head to the dealership, and as long as the test drive goes well, the car will be yours.

Now, hold it right there. There's more to a test drive than just taking a few spins around the block. A 10-minute cruise bears a lot of weight if you plan to keep your car for a few years. Follow this guide to make it a smooth ride.

Before you even start the car, take a good look at it. Seams should be straight and uniform, and exterior panels should match up. Test the door handles to see if the doors open comfortably. Remember that you'll be wearing gloves or mittens in the winter — if the doors have trouble opening with your bare hands, it will only be worse in cold weather.

Then, hop into the front seat. Play with the radios, gauges, windows and other controls, making sure they are easy to reach, operate and adjust. Fiddle with them now, not on the road when you should be paying attention to your driving.

Don't forget to look out for your passengers. See what it's like getting into and out of the car from the passenger and backseats, noting the width of door openings and the height of seats. Compact cars will have smaller backseats.

But if it's really tight and you will often have backseat passengers (like children), you might want to reconsider your car selection.

Pop the trunk. See if your suitcases, golf clubs, stroller or other gear you regularly stash in the trunk will fit in easily.

See how high you have to lift items to get them inside. You want it to be easy to load, not something that you'll have to struggle with on a daily basis.

TAKING A SPIN

Now it's time to hop in. Don't start the car until you are ready, having adjusted the mirrors, steering wheel and seat.

The seat should be comfortable enough to provide long-distance support, and the head rest should lock in place and adjust to your height.

Choose a route that covers an array of surfaces like streets, towns, country roads and highways to test how the car handles and feels on different terrains. The ride should be soft and cushioned, and you shouldn't hear strange noises when traveling over rough surfaces.

Put the car through the rigors of driving. Test steering by taking long curves, short curves, lane changes and swerves. Gauge how the car reacts to changes in direction.

Steering should feel stable and precise enough to give you control to avoid an accident. Test the car's power. Accelerate onto on ramps, pass at high speeds and accelerate at normal conditions. You should be able to go fast enough to avoid accidents and pass slower cars. Test the brakes as much as possible.

Carefully, use the brakes softly and then more forcefully. They should slow you in a straight, controlled fashion.

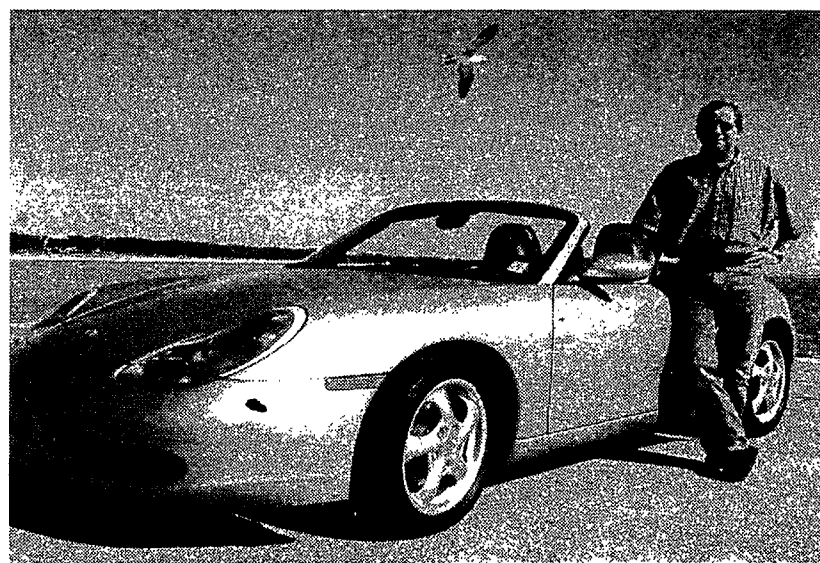

You won't just be driving the car; you'll be parking it too.

Parallel park to check for blind spots. Park in a lot to test the mirrors and maneuverability of the car. Putting the car through all the motions of a routine day of driving is the best way to test its capabilities.

It's up to you to get the most out of your test drive, so take your time. Never spend less than 10 minutes in a car. If you can have it for an hour, overnight or a weekend, take advantage of it and make the most of your time. Just don't get so absorbed in the driving experience that you cruise at 100 mph.

No one wants to end up with a speeding ticket in a car that isn't even theirs.

When Shopping for Car Repairs, Make Sure You Choose the Best

Nowadays, one hears of certified used cars, certified public accountants, even certified election results. So motorists may be forgiven if they are a bit confused about ASE-certified auto technicians.

Just who or what are certified auto technicians, anyway? Why bother?

ASE, or the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence, conducts the only industry-wide, national testing and certification program for automotive technicians.

The organization is the recognized leader in technician credentialing, with endorsements by nearly every major automotive organization.

In addition to certification in automobile specialties, ASE offers testing for parts specialists, service consultants, collision technicians,

THE NATIONAL INSTITUTE for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE), conducts the only industry-wide, national testing and certification program for automotive technicians.

Unlike vocational licensing, which is often little more than a permit automatically issued by a government entity to anyone who pays a fee, technician certification offers meaning and value to technicians, employers and consumers alike.

ASE certification is voluntary, meaning it attracts some of the best working technicians, who are in it for pride as much as job security and remuneration. Many technicians pay for the testing fees themselves and brush up on their skills before attempting to earn this national credential. Even if the technician passes the tests, certification is not automatic. Candidates must also possess two years of relevant work experience. Nor is the certification for life: Recertification is required every five years, which encourages technicians to keep abreast of changing technology.

Those who pass all of ASE's eight automobile tests become Master Auto Technicians.

Employers often support their technicians' efforts to earn this national credential by covering the cost of testing, offering monetary incentives for passing ASE tests and advertising their certified technicians to the public.

Consumers benefit since technician certification takes much of the guesswork out of finding competent auto repair professionals. It stands to reason, too, that shop owners who have taken the time and expense to support their employees' efforts to become certified will also reap the rewards of good service and happy customers.

ASE-certified technicians wear shoulder insignia. Repair shop owners and managers often post their technicians' credentials in the customer waiting area, and display the blue and white ASE sign ("The Blue Seal") on the premises. Certified technicians can be found at all types of repair facilities, from dealerships and independent garages to franchises and service stations. Shops with a majority of ASE-certified technicians are eligible to join ASE's Blue Seal of Excellence Recognition Program.

Visit www.ase.com for more information about ASE's technician certification programs.

Power Trip: Getting Your Car Organized

The scene is the same in most cars: an umbrella in the backseat, library books in the glove compartment and a set of golf clubs in the trunk.

Your car becomes an extended part of your life, accumulating more clutter everyday. It's no surprise — you spend much of the day on the road as you commute to work, chauffeur the kids to after-school activities and shuttle around town doing errands.

That's why it's important to keep your car organized and ready for all your errands and outings. Start by keeping a supply of trash bags in the car to temporarily store food, junk mail or other papers you don't need. As soon as you get home, discard the trash and bring in mail, purchases or anything else you won't need stored in the car.

Stash items you use on every trip like maps or an umbrella in a plastic organizer bin or in compartmentalized seat-back organizers. Replace items like tissues as they run out so you'll always have what you need.

Use a crate or laundry basket to store groceries, dry cleaning, library books or video-store rentals for the trip home.

Visor and glove compartment areas may be small, but specialized organizers can hold your pens, paper, sunglasses and even spare change.

Make the most of your time in traffic or while waiting for soccer practice to end with a mobile office of sorts. Carry folders with work-related reading, bills, birthday cards, permission slips or other papers.

Just be sure to separate work and personal items so that your child won't accidentally give his teacher your quarterly report, and so you won't end up handing your big client a permission slip to visit the museum.

USING seat organizers makes it easy to keep your vehicle clutter-free and organized.

Headache-Free Family Trips

A Little Preparation Can Help Avoid Parental 'Road Rage'

When Mark and Ginger Jumper plan a road trip, they plan for seven others too.

The couple has seven children, ranging in age from nine months to 10 years old, and they frequently pile everyone in their 12-passenger van for long vacations.

Over the years, the East Lyme, Connecticut, couple has taken the children on road trips to Georgia and Pennsylvania and on trips as far away as Brazil. Through their travels, the family has come up with five tips for parents to help make road trips run smoothly.

1. Plan ahead: The Jumpers plan months in advance for their vacations, talking with their children about the trip almost daily and answering any questions that arise. "With a large family, gone are the days when we could just drop everything and go," says Ginger.

Fodor's Travel Web site, www.fodors.com, recommends visiting the library to check out children's books about the destination. Seeing a movie that features the vacation spot or watching videos from tourism bureaus can also help children prepare for the journey.

With small children, going

on a make-believe trip can help ease their fears. Have them pack a suitcase and take a pretend car ride or plane trip. Here, parents can have a chance to prepare children about what to expect, like plane turbulence and long airport lines.

Ginger says it's also important to play up the trip to the children: If the parents are happy and excited about the vacation, the children will be also. "The mom really needs to set the tone. She is very important, and she really has a lot to do with it," she says.

2. Keep the same routine: Mark and Ginger Jumper try to stick as closely as possible to their schedule at home.

They have mealtimes at around the same time and have regular naptimes and bedtimes. After dinner on the road, Ginger often has the children change into their pajamas for the evening leg of a long journey. She plays soothing tapes so the kids can sleep.

Keeping a schedule also helps combat behavior problems, says Ginger. "You see kids who are just berserk in rest areas. They're being pushed to the max," she says.

3. Pack lightly and well: With so many children, the Jumpers have a system for packing. Ginger often combines the clothes of two children into one suitcase to save space. She packs only about four days' worth of clothes to save space and washes the family laundry at least once during the vacation.

Each child also has a small "travel bag." It's a canvas sack and each child packs a bag with toys and treasures for the journey. Fodor's Travel says children as young as three can decide which toys or books they want to take.

For infants and toddlers, some suggestions include tapes of children's songs and a favorite stuffed animal. For preschoolers and up, try spiral notebooks and some washable markers, small play cars and trucks and travel versions of popular board games.

4. Be realistic: You can't get in the car and drive five or six hours without stopping like you could before you had children. Remember that your children will have to stop often for bathroom breaks. "There are times you struggle to make 100 miles in three hours, and there's no such thing as a short stop," said Mark. While he doesn't stop the car at every whim, when one of the children truly needs to stop, he does.

5. Have fun: Keep a sense of humor and cut your kids some slack. A vacation is never the time for the strictest discipline. Remember that family time is important, and family vacations are experiences your children will remember for a lifetime.

Wake Up to Danger of Driving Fatigue

Sleeping and driving don't mix. It's as simple as that. When you are behind the wheel of a car, fatigue can slow your reaction time, decrease your overall awareness, impair judgment, and quadruple your chances of being involved in an accident, just like drugs or alcohol.

Are you "asleep at the wheel" when it comes to the facts about fatigue? Find out how you rate by testing your knowledge with the following quiz, courtesy of the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety.

1. Drinking coffee, tea or anything caffeinated overcomes the effects of drowsiness while driving.

— True
— False

2. You'll always know if you're about to fall asleep.

— True
— False

3. If you're a cautious driver overall, fatigue is not a problem.

— True
— False

4. Most people get adequate sleep each night.

— True
— False

5. Teens and young adults need less sleep, so fatigue isn't an issue for them.

— True
— False

ANSWERS

1. False — Stimulants are no substitute for sleep. Products containing caffeine can make you more alert, especially when used in conjunction with naps. However, when they are used alone, the effects last only for a short time. If you drink coffee and seriously are sleep-deprived, you still are likely to have "micro-sleeps" — brief naps that last four or five seconds. At 55 mph, that's more than 100 yards.

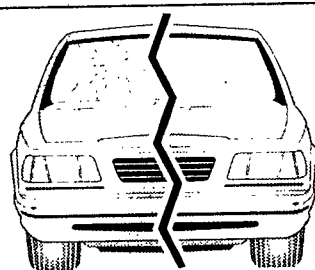

2. False — If you're like most people, you believe you can control your sleep. The truth is, sleep is not voluntary. If you're drowsy, you can fall asleep and never know it. You cannot tell how long you've been asleep. When you're driving, being asleep even for a few seconds can be fatal.

3. False — The only safe driver is an alert driver. Even the safest drivers become confused and use poor judgment when they are sleepy.

4. False — Chances are, you really aren't getting all the sleep you need. The average person needs seven or eight hours of sleep a night.

5. False — In fact, teens and young adults need more sleep than people in their 30s.

They often get less because they enjoy staying up late or wake up early for school. Still, when they get up early, they still feel alert in the evening. In turn, they think that means it's okay they don't get enough sleep. Unfortunately, temporary alertness wears off later and people can end up driving home drowsy.

Drivers who work night shifts, long hours, or more than one job are at increased risk for being involved in a crash caused by falling asleep at the wheel or fatigue, according to a first-of-its-kind study by the University of North Carolina Highway Safety Research Center. Other factors strongly associated with having a drowsy-driving crash include sleeping less than six hours per night, being awake for 20 hours or longer, and frequent driving between midnight and 6 a.m.

TEACH KIDS to read and recognize traffic signals to prevent unnecessary accidents.

Teach Kids the Rules of the Road

Fall may bring cooler temperatures, but that will never stop kids from playing outdoors, whether it be riding bikes, jumping in the leaves or tossing a baseball. But, these early evening hours are a dangerous time for children. Nearly half of traffic-related child pedestrian deaths occurred after school from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. in 2001, according to the National Safe Kids Campaign.

These daunting statistics are attributed to the fact that kids can't always judge speed, space and distance. Such capacities are beyond their control — these senses don't develop fully until age 10. That's why children under 10 years old should never cross the street by themselves.

Make it a point to teach kids the rules of the road. Teach them how to obey traffic signals. Tell them to stop and cross the street at corners and crosswalks, and not to enter the street from between parked cars or from behind bushes or shrubs.

Tell kids to look in both directions twice before crossing the street. They should make eye contact with drivers before crossing the street — just because they can see a driver doesn't mean he can see them.

Prohibit play in driveways, streets, parking lots and unfenced yards adjacent to streets. A high number of children from birth to age 2 suffer nontraffic-related pedestrian injuries in places like driveways, parking lots and sidewalks.

Teaching your kids these tips can help reduce unnecessary accidents and keep them doing what kids love to do — playing outside.

Curb Teen Car Insurance Costs

In the teenage years, the hormones grab hold. Pimples wreak havoc to faces, the opposite sex suddenly gets factored into the equation and mood swings become the norm.

One of the most anticipated milestones of a teen's life is, inarguably, getting a license. But before teens hit the road full speed ahead, they need to make the words "auto insurance" part of their vocabulary. It's illegal to drive without car insurance, and it's unfortunately surrounded by some daunting statistics: the risk of crash per mile driven is four times higher for 16 to 19 year olds than for older drivers, according to the Auto Insurance Advocate, an online car insurance resource. That's why auto insurance is necessary to protect teens in case of an accident as well as theft.

As reflected in news headlines across the country, auto insurance rates have skyrocketed in most states. But there are ways to purchase quality insurance without having to sacrifice their college savings. Here are five tips from industry experts to help teens and their parents save:

1. Educated students reap rewards. Those who get a B or better average can score discounts. The credit varies state to state, but you could get a discount of up to 25 percent.

And teens who take a driving course can get about a 10 percent discount.

2. Once teens have three years of driving experience, they are considered less of a risk.

Unfortunately, those with three or less years are slammed with higher rates.

3. Adding a teen to your policy is always going to raise your premium, but it's cheaper than getting a teen his own policy. Get a few quotes before deciding on a company.

Also, ask your carrier if you can designate one vehicle as your young driver's on the policy. That way the insurance company won't price the premium based on the highest-risk vehicle on your policy. Note that in many states if you have three drivers and two vehicles, the teen driver will be rated on the car with the higher premium, even if the teen never drives it. But, if you have three cars and three drivers, you can lock the teen into one vehicle.

4. Even one ticket or accident hikes rates.

More than three can threaten teens with policy cancellation. Teens shouldn't even think about drinking and driving — a D.U.I or D.W.I. can get a policy cancelled or prevent teens from getting insurance.

Even if the policy is renewed, the rates will be higher for the next 3 to 5 years.

5. If you are thinking of buying your teen a car, inquire about its rating. Spinning around the high school parking lot in a pricey convertible may sound cool, but more "high performance" vehicles or those that are favored by thieves mean higher insurance rates. But that doesn't mean you should skimp completely and get a lemon of a car.

Instead, look at cars that boast safety-minded features like automatic seatbelts, airbags and antilock breaks that could also bring in discounts.

As reflected in news headlines across the country, auto insurance rates have skyrocketed in most states. But there are ways to purchase quality insurance without having to sacrifice their college savings.

MANY CAR MAKERS offer "near-luxury" models that are much easier on your wallet, leaving you plenty of money to save for a rainy day.

Near-Luxury Cars Offer a Budget-Friendly Option

Driving a luxury is car, is just the regal experience everyone says it is on the car commercials. Everyone likes to feel like a king or queen once in a while and driving a luxury car can create a feeling of prestige, of being among the elite — first class. However, not everyone can handle the high price tags of luxury models. That's why many car manufacturers offer "near-luxury" models that are much easier on the wallet. According to CarsDirect.com, an auto resource for consumers, the near-luxury segment typically spans in base MSRP from $23,000 to $37,000. Not bad, right? Near-luxury cars also tend to offer slightly less interior room than their higher-priced counterparts, but the smaller size often translates into agile handling and an overall sportier look. Most are well-appointed sedans and coupes, and are designed to meet popular demand for value-priced luxury and performance.

All vehicles in this class come standard with anti-lock braking systems, and the majority come with side or overhead airbags. Some models also offer child safety seat tethers to help secure little ones, and dynamic head restraints, which automatically adjust the seatback and head restraints to minimize upper body injuries in event of a rear-impact collision. Also found in near-luxury cars is traction control, which limits wheel spin on slippery roads and electronic stability control, which controls a vehicle's rocking motion.

Get Revved Up for a Special Anniversary

The words "Harley-Davidson" and "big" have always gone together. A Harley conjures up images of big men with big tattoos riding big bikes while wearing big leather jackets. In the classic 1969 Jack Nicholson/Peter Fonda vehicle, "Easy Rider," the Harley represented big attitude and even bigger trouble with the legendary Hell's Angels.

The famed motorcycle brand is really less a mode of transportation and more a big cultural symbol. And this year, to celebrate its 100th birthday, Harley-Davidson is doing it the only way it knows how — big. Starting in July 2002, the company visited nine cities around the world on the Harley-Davidson "Open Road Tour," featuring exhibits, motorcycle displays, music and children's activities. The tour concluded last August with the "Ride Home," a massive bike procession to Milwaukee for what Harley-Davidson called "the greatest birthday party the world has ever seen."

It's only fitting that the party took place in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where the renowned motorcycles came to life. Just over a century ago, in a 10-foot by 15-foot shed, William Harley, 21, and Arthur Davidson, 20, had an idea to build a vehicle that would be similar to a bicycle but require less effort. After a few early efforts, Arthur's brothers Walter and William soon joined the production of these new motorized bikes, and by 1903 they had three motorcycles and a company under their helmets.

The distinctive style of the motorcycle evolved over the years, but several early innovations are still evident today. In the 1920s, for example, the teardrop-shaped gas tank was designed. Other tell-tale signs of the Harley, like the curvature of the fenders and its V-Twin engine, were added later. Today, there are five families of Harley-Davidson — Sportster, Dyna, Softail, VRSC and Touring.

In 1910, the "Bar & Shield" logo was used for the first time. It was trademarked one year later, beginning the legendary journey to a cultural icon. However, the legacy of Harley-Davidson isn't just about the look and logo of the bikes. The sound of a Harley — a bold "pop-pop" that distinguishes the bikes from other famous brands, like Italy's Vespa and Japan's Suzuki — has also become a part of the American consciousness.

The main Harley-Davidson riding organization is the Harley Owners Group (H.O.G.), which seeks to further the Harley-Davidson experience. Established in 1983 by Harley-Davidson in response to a growing desire by riders for an organized way to share their passion and show their pride, the group grew to 49 local chapters around the U.S. by 1985 with a total membership of 60,000. Today, there are 750,000 members around the world. In addition, Harley clubs of all shapes and sizes gather for motorcycle races, rallies, benefits or other events.

In fact, at age 100, the brand's popularity is still on the rise. According to the company's financial statements, there have been 17 consecutive years of record revenue and income. In 2002, the company boasted $4.1 billion in revenue, a 20 percent increase from the previous year. Now, with lines of clothing for men, women and children plus restaurants in New York City and Las Vegas, Harley-Davidson continues to enjoy success and take advantage of its status as a global cultural institution.

Car Care 101:

How To Keep Your Car's Finish Looking New

There is no mistaking the appeal of a shiny new car. That fresh-from-the-showroom look turns heads and garners nods of approval. But pollution, weather, scratches and a host of other pesky problems can soon leave your car's exterior looking dull and less appealing. Perhaps you think that waxing can help restore shine to your car. Well, not if you do it the wrong way.

Many commonly used waxes can actually dull a new car's mirror finish. They use a combination of wax or silicones and harsh abrasive polish which causes tiny scratches. The scratches can deflect light, ruin new paint and create an overall reduction in shine.

Your new car should not be exposed to these abrasives — a washing and a follow-up with an abrasive-free wax may be all you need to once again get that sparkling, fresh-from-the-dealership shine.

The most effective waxes are made with imported Carnauba wax. The first car waxes were composed of this ingredient and were abrasive-free. As the costs of gathering and importing this natural wax skyrocketed, chemists created less expensive "waxless" substitutes. They were billed as the "lazy man's one-step car polish."

TAKING CARE OF YOUR CAR'S finish can keep it looking as though you just drove it off the lot for years to come.

Unfortunately, they've never been able to equal the extreme high gloss and lasting power of pure Carnauba wax. The progression from Carnauba to man-made synthetics occurred over many years. Therefore, only astute consumers realized they were getting less shine for their money.

Today it is difficult to find an abrasive-free car wax containing the best grades of Carnauba. One company that markets a blend of Carnauba waxes is the Malm Chemical Corp.

Their Carnauba wax contains no cleansers, polishes, abrasives or anything that can scratch paint. A quarter pint of concentrated liquid Carnauba will cover more cars than a full-pint of most store-bought waxes.

Tire Tips

Tires are the only part of your car that make direct contact with the asphalt, therefore it's vitally important that they are in top shape every time you take to the road. However, they're one of the auto repairs that car owners put off the most. After all, as long as they're not completely bald, you'll get around okay, right?

Not exactly. The painful truth is that the more worn your tire treads are, the less traction you will have on the road. Over time, this may have a negative effect on your car's fuel efficiency, as you're forced to output more power — and burn more gas — to cover the same distance. Worn tires are also dangerous.

DON'T CROSS THE LINE

So, how do you know when it's time to replace your vehicle's tires? Here's a simple rule of thumb: don't cross the line. Most tires have a tread wear indicator built into them — a line that runs across the tread face, which is 2/32 higher than the base tread. If your tires are worn past that line, they are too worn for the road and need to be replaced. To be extra sure, make an appointment with your local garage to check the tires for wear.

TIRE SHOPPING TIPS

- Tread life — The first attribute you'll have to research is how long the tires will last. Compare different types and brands of tires and make sure to use the same comparison factor for each. For example, compare mileage or lifespan for each tire.

- Traction — This is another important factor. Let the tire salesperson know how much traction you need from your tires. The grip factor will vary for winter tires, performance tires and all-season tires. Once you know what kind of traction you need, he or she can help guide you to the best tire for your money.

- Price — Tires can be expensive. You should actually determine how much you're willing to spend before you start shopping so that you'll know what to look for when comparing different tires. Also, compare installment prices and warranties before making your final purchase.

- Ride and handling — It may sound elementary, but take a few moments to do research or ask a salesperson to find out if there is any difference in the smoothness of the ride between one set of tires and another. If you have the choice between two identically priced tires with the same tread life and traction, a more comfortable ride can be a factor in your final decision.

Checking in With Diana-Maria Riva

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

"I keep forgetting why I divorced you," Isabella says to her TV ex-husband on "Luis" Fridays on Fox. Then, she looks at Luis Guzman, the estranged husband, and says, "Now I remember."

"I do like her," Diana-Maria Riva says of her character, Isabella. "I don't think I would want her life. But, as far as an actor, I can sink my teeth into it and run with her on this show ... And who doesn't like a smartass? Who doesn't like to play a smartass? I do. She is the voice of reason in this big storm."

In the sitcom, about a Latino family in East Harlem, Guzman refers to Riva's Dominican Republic heritage. Riva grew up bilingual in Cincinnati, surrounded by strong women.

"I was always a little performer," she says. "My grandmother would take me to the production of 'Annie' that came to Cincinnati every year. The first time I was about the same age as these kids at the orphanage, I fell in love with it. On the drive home, I said, 'I am going to be an actor.' And without question, she said 'OK.' And that is what I have in my family."

After receiving her degree in theater performance from the University of Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, Riva headed to Los Angeles. While performing in the play, "Help!" an agent discovered her.

Soon, she had a development deal at ABC, which led to a role in "Common Law," a short-lived series.

Diana-Maria Riva

Married for the last five years to an artist, who stays home with their 2-year-old son, Riva also is a step-mother to four children, aged 8 to 22.

"I just go out and do what I love to do the most," she says. "And I have a family at the same time. In this profession, it is so hard to do and I am just lucky."

Birthdate: "July 22, last day of Cancer. I don't say the year," she says.

Resides: Los Angeles.

Guilty pleasure on television: "If there's a good rerun of 'Little House on the Prairie,' I will watch it and that show makes me cry every time."

Film: "Chasing Papi"; "Exposed"; "What Women Want."

TV: "Sabrina, the Teenage Witch"; "Philly"; "Everybody Loves Raymond"; "Murder One"; "NYPD Blue."

Challenge as a parent: "I like to go on vacations," she says. "But there is such an age difference, we can't go to Disneyland because the 22-year-old is not having fun. We just went on a cruise and there was something for everyone."

'The Elegant Universe' tries to explain it all for you

By Kate O'Hare

In the 1977 sci-fi epic "Star Wars," Han Solo wrinkles his nose at the mention of The Force and snits, "Kid, I've flown from one side of the galaxy to the other. I've seen a lot of strange stuff, but I've never seen anything to make me believe there's one all-powerful force controlling everything."

Solo obviously never met Albert Einstein, who spent the last 30 years of his life in an ultimately unsuccessful attempt to concoct an all-encompassing Theory of Everything.

Now a new generation of theoretical physicists thinks this is not a fruitless quest and may just have come up with a radical new concept that unites the laws of the very large - general relativity - with the laws of the very small - quantum mechanics.

What does that mean for you and me? Only that all that we see or seem may be the result of minuscule vibrating strings, essentially producing the music that holds the universe together.

On consecutive Tuesdays, Oct. 28 and Nov. 4, PBS (check local listings) presents this groundbreaking idea in a three-hour "Nova" miniseries called "The Elegant Universe," inspired by the book of the same name by Brian Greene, a physicist, mathematician and Pulitzer Prize finalist.

Utilizing cutting-edge computer graphics, "The Elegant Universe" tries to present a visual primer on the universe as seen by string theorists, a universe of multiple dimensions that may be only one of many parallel universes.

By Caroline James - Zap2it

Oct. 26 through Nov. 1, 2003
Aries (March 21 - April 20)

A new moon will have you feeling like you need to reorganize some important legal papers. Go ahead and do so if you'll feel better.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)

You'll be in an amorous mood thanks to a new moon, so take advantage of it and show your partner a good time.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

If you commit yourself to it this time, you'll really be able to start a new health routine. It will do you a world of good.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)

Creativity is your spark of energy right now, so write down everything that comes to you and look it over later.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)

Spend some time at home with friends and family. It seems they need your company right now, and you need their comfort right now.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)

You could make a difference in a relationship by opening up and communicating, Virgo - but that's only if you really want to.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

You'll be tempted to make a purchase this week, but it will be driven by pure emotion rather than need. Put the checkbook away and sleep on it.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)

A personal revelation will clear up some long-standing issues for you, making your life smoother in the near future.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)

Secrets might haunt you, and you'll have to keep them to yourself for now. Work on cleaning out your emotional closet, Archers.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)

Friends will be coming out of the woodwork, so be sure to clear your social calendar. You'll have a good time, and you might make new contacts.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

Your career could take a new turn, Aquarius, when the new moon hits your 10th house. Wear your best clothes and ask for that raise.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)

You'll be itching to take a trip abroad, or land on foreign soil, but unfortunately, the closest you might get to this is in a best-selling novel.

Summer smash 'The O.C.' returns to Fox on new night

© Zap2it

Surf's up, but winsome Marissa Cooper's spirits are still way down as "The O.C." returns to the Fox lineup in a new Wednesday time period starting Oct. 29.

As the show's addicted fans will clearly remember, the last episode ended on a dire note for Marissa (Mischa Barton) when "The O.C." took a short hiatus for baseball play-offs.

Devastated by the news that her parents (Tate Donovan, Melinda Clarke) are getting a divorce and heartbroken by her boyfriend Luke's (Chris Carmack) dalliance with another girl, Marissa found herself in a low-class Mexican gin joint where she knocked back a fistful of painkillers and washed them down with tequila. At the final fade-out, love-struck Ryan (Benjamin McKenzie) was carrying her limp form from a filthy alley where she had collapsed.

Needless to say, some of the show's more diehard fans have been on the edge of their seats awaiting future developments, Barton says.

"Some of them have told me they were upset that the show was off for awhile and would ask me to tell them what was going to happen to my character," she says. "Clearly people already have gotten very attached to these characters, and I don't think that happens very often."

"I have people coming up to me daily now telling me how much they love the show and how invested they are in the characters now."

That level of celebrity is a little dizzying to the 17-year-old Barton, although she has been acting since she was discovered by an agent at summer camp when she was 8. It's just that most of her work has been in prestigious and critically acclaimed indie films and plays that a mass audience never saw. In fact, prior to "The O.C.," perhaps her most widely known work was as the young poisoning victim whose ghost threw up on little Haley Joel Osment in the box-office smash "The Sixth Sense."

"A lot of people remember that scene," Barton laughs. "Most of my career has been spent doing work that I was very proud of, even if it hasn't been seen by that many people. If nothing else, those jobs were a great experience for me."

"What is wonderful about 'The O.C.' is that it has both good writing and good acting and it also is being embraced on such a wide level by audiences. I am very ... proud to be a part of it. And it has been great to get that positive feedback so quickly. You know, when you do a film, you have to wait for months to see how it will be received."

Born in London, Barton moved to New York with her parents when she was 4. Shortly after that fateful summer camp encounter with an agent, at age 9 she landed a leading role in "Slavs!" a play by Tony Kushner ("Angels in America"). Additional work followed at Lincoln Center and the New York Shakespeare Festival, among other venues, and she also spent three seasons as Lily Benton Montgomery on the ABC soap "All My Children."

Barton made her feature film debut in 1998 with the well-received Sundance Film Festival favorite "Lawn Dogs," in which she starred with another rising actor, Sam Rockwell ("Matchstick Men"). The small but loyal audience of ABC's "Once and Mischa Barton plays a Southern California beauty on Fox's Wednesday drama "The O.C.," but don't dismiss her as a pretty face. At 17, she has some serious acting chops and a list of credits other actors would kill for.

Again" also remember Barton for her acute and very poignant portrayal of Katie Singer, the lesbian cousin of Jessie Sammler (Evan Rachel Wood, "Thirteen").

Despite the gratifying response Barton received for the latter TV gig, the actress concedes that just a few years ago she planned to give the medium a wide berth.

"For a few years I noticed that doing television was kind of frowned upon among the actors I was working with, especially in theater, because there was a sense that the quality was lacking and the overall level of work was just not very high," she says, "but the bar has really been raised in the past couple of years."

'Bonnie' loses a child in series revamp

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Q In the second season opener of "Life With Bonnie," the daughter Samantha was missing, yet there was no explanation for why she wasn't there. How can a show just forget a kid? Do they think we don't pay attention? -Tonya Madden, Thonotosassa, Fla.

A Boy, I'm sure they wish you didn't, because incredible as it sounds, daughter Samantha Molloy (Samantha Browne-Walters) has been written out of the Bonnie Hunt series as if she had never been a part of her TV family. The move is part of several creative changes aimed at improving the show's soft ratings, including moving high-strung producer David Bellows (David Alan Grier) into the Molloy household and promoting scene-stealing child actor Frankie Ryan Manriquez to series regular status.

Actually, this isn't the first time a character has disappeared without explanation from her family in an ABC sitcom. On "Family Matters," Jaimee Foxworth vanished from her role as young Judy Winslow in 1993 without any reaction from the other characters. In that case, however, the "Matters" cast was so large that many viewers didn't even register Fox-worth's absence until she resurfaced in syndicated reruns of early episodes.

Samantha Browne-Walters

What "Bonnie" did, however, is close to unprecedented, because daughter Samantha was a big part of the domestic scenes on the sitcom. It'll be interesting to see whether fans will swallow such a glaring change in a show that has prided itself on its realistic depiction of a loving nuclear family.

Q Is "Crossing Jordan" coming back this season? My husband and I enjoyed it. -Maria Dowell via e-mail.

A Wow, judging from my mailbox, almost no one saw the first time I addressed this question several months ago, so here goes again: As of this writing, Jill Hennessy is awaiting the birth of her first child, which may already have arrived by the time you read this.

To accommodate Hennessy's real-life situation, "Jordan" will return to NBC as a mid-season series some time in early 2004.

Hope and faith really exist on the set of 'Hope & Faith'

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

Kelly Ripa rummages through a huge bowl of candy as she sits cross-legged on a couch on the set of ABC's "Hope & Faith." "I have passed out candy for years and years, and I have never once had anyone who remotely looks like him come to my door," she says of guest star Christian de la Fuente.

Women scattered throughout the cavernous studio laugh, acknowledging that they too have opened their doors to dole out mini-Snickers but never found a hunk. This, however, is a sitcom, and the Chilean actor plays a no-good love interest in the Friday, Oct. 31, episode "The Halloween Story."

As Ripa, who plays Faith, extracts a candy, co-star Ted McGinley struts through a door, doing his impersonation of John Travolta in "Saturday Night Fever." McGinley, as Charley, goes as the disco king, while Faith Ford, who plays his wife and Faith's older sister, Hope, is dressed like a rock star for Halloween.

The sitcom children's costumes are to type. Justin (Paulie Litt), with chunks of food taped to him, is vomit. Hayley (Macey Cruthird), looking dour, is famine. And when Charley asks oldest daughter Sydney (Nicole Paggi) where her costume is, she says, "I'm wearing my pumpkin thong."

With a roster of proven television talent - McGinley was on "Happy Days" and "Married ... With Children," Ford was on "Murphy Brown," and Ripa was on "All My Children" and continues on "Live with Regis & Kelly" - the show should be a hit. The first two episodes, however, had some cringe-worthy scenes, such as a food fight and corpse jokes, and the writing is not up to the actors' talent. But early Nielsen numbers were promising, and the cast is hopeful.

Though Ripa lives in Manhattan, McGinley and Ford moved from Los Angeles for the show that shoots Fridays in Queens before a 264-member audience. McGinley pines for his wife, actress Gigi Rice, and two sons, ages 9 and 6. "We talk every day before they go to bed," he says.

Despite the oppressive heat of a September afternoon, Halloween is in the air. "I love Halloween," McGinley says, "and I am going to be home on Halloween. We'll go out with the kids, and my folks will hang home."

As the other parent on set, P'ipa is also making Halloween plans. Her family is "going trick-or-treating with The Wiggles," she says. Then they attend a block party on the Upper West Side, where the street is closed to traffic. Five weeks before the big day, the costumes were not definite, but Ripa predicts her 6-year-old son, Michael, will be the Tasmanian Devil, 2-year-old Lola will be a ballerina, and Joaquin, 8 months, "will be a little clown, and I'll be a big clown," she says.

"At 'Live,' we always incorporate the families," she says. "Last year, when Regis and I were each other, Mark (Consuelos, her husband) and I kept making out - and I was Regis. It was haunting and disturbing."

Outside of Ripa's character watching scary movies, nothing on this show is haunting. And the most disturbing aspect of this episode is that de la Fuente's character is not the upstanding stripper he pretends to be. Of course, Hope, as an omniscient big sister, knows this and tries to warn her.

Faith moved in with Hope and her family after her character on a soap opera was killed off. A true drama queen who is about as deep as a wading pool, Faith seems to have little interest in the world outside herself. Ripa plays her to the max.

Indeed, the three adults have a firm handle on their characters. McGinley sees Charley as "the patriarch of the all-American family," he says. "He has three kids and a beautiful wife and he is an orthodontist. I wanted one of the kids to have bucked teeth. It would be the bane of his existence."

So far, that has not been written into the show, which is taped in a studio that from the outside looks like an airplane hangar. The most popular spot is the craft services table holding bowls of fruit, candy and other food. Ford takes a handful of almonds.

"I call Faith the squirrel because she leaves little plates of food behind in every scene," Ripa says.

Here is the weird part - at least by Hollywood standards - Ford and Ripa are successful, beautiful actresses and they actually eat. "We are a rarity," Ford says, draping her arm around Ripa's shoulder as they walk off to lunch. They also love to talk about food, push food and share food.

ny stove in a Manhattan hotel and knows how to save scorched soup.

She even thinks in culinary terms. "I was here first on the planet with this family," she says of her character, "and she (Ripa) came on, and she's a cross between tabasco and file (in gumbo)."

"My big concern," Ripa says between bites of a Cuban sandwich, "is, what if she's a dieter?"

Ripa openly chats about everything, including gaining 80 pounds during her last pregnancy. Today, as they sit on the floor eating from plastic take-out containers, both women are thin. "It's because we work," Ford says, taking a break from her tuna salad to sample Ripa's sandwich. "We don't sit on our tuchises and expect people to wait on us."

'24' doesn't pull any punches in season three

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

"I'm Jack Bauer, and this is the third longest day of my life."

Fox's favorite hard-luck super-agent is going to regret calling in sick, as the drama "24" returns for a third season Tuesday, Oct. 28. Fox again presents the season premiere commercial-free.

As before, each episode is an hour in a full day (albeit one mysteriously free of traffic jams and bathroom breaks), and Bauer is called upon to save the nation from imminent disaster.

In season one, it was an attempted assassination of presidential candidate Sen. David Palmer (Dennis Haysbert). Season two had a terrorist nuclear bomb that precipitated a coup aimed at now-President Palmer. This time, it's a deadly pathogen, but that's only the tip of the iceberg.

It's been three years since last season's finale, which saw a physically spent Jack whisked off to the hospital after surviving torture, heart failure and a car wreck. Palmer was felled by a poisoned handshake from lovely assassin Mandy (Mia Kirshner).

Both lived, but it was Palmer who had the shakier prognosis. "We didn't know if he would live or die," executive producer Howard Gordon says. "We dug really deep to find an organic way to bring him back into the season, but it was a challenge."

With a year-plus gap between seasons one and two, and a three-year gap between two and three, Palmer now faces the ultimate presidential hurdle - re-election.

As for Jack Bauer, last year's budding romance with Kate Warner (Sarah Wynter) apparently has flowered and faded. He's back at the Counter Terrorist Unit, with a new office and his own special-ops unit. He's acquired a partner, Chase Edmunds (James Badge Dale), who idolizes him. But, Gordon says, Jack's all about the work this year.

"Jack is firmly entrenched in the opinion that you can't do this kind of work and have a personal relationship and sustain that," Gordon says. "That's one of the themes that we're running through this year, with Palmer and Jack and Kim - love and work."

Speaking of Jack's wayward daughter, Kim (Elisha Cuthbert) - the television embodiment of "The Perils of Pauline" - she survived another season of kidnaps, escapes, murders and gunplay (Cuthbert still bears a scar from a cougar bite suffered during production). Her first-season love interest, Rick (Daniel Bess), presumably wound up in jail; her second-season beau, Miguel (Innis Casey), lost a leg helping Kim escape from police.

"She doesn't know that," Cuthbert says. "But he left, so there's a new boy. He's pretty impressive, but there's going to be some conflict there with Dad and boyfriend and me."

No longer the hapless victim, Kim has signed on to CTU, working her way up from an entry-level position to a low rung on the ladder.

"We've just been assuming," Cuthbert says, "that she's taken a liking to what her father does. Over the past two years, she's gotten to know it quite well, losing her mother to it, firing a gun in the second season."

"We assume, the last three years, she's been in intense training and learning. She's in there working her butt off, trying to prove to everyone she can do it."

Also juggling the personal and professional is CTU operative Tony Almeida (Carlos Bernard), who, after covering Jack's butt for two seasons, has now taken over CTU.

Elisha Cuthbert stars as Kim Bauer, the daughter of an antiterrorist agent, who has been caught in the cross hairs of her father's job and goes to work at the Los Angeles Counter Terrorist Unit, in the real-time series "24," which launches its third season Tuesday on Fox.

Lakers' fortunes rest with Kobe's, says ESPN's Breen

By George Dickie
© Zap2it

After missing the NBA Finals for the first time in four years, the Los Angeles Lakers spent the offseason collecting big-name talent.

They signed power forward Karl Malone, late of the Utah Jazz, and longtime Seattle SuperSonics point guard Gary Payton as free agents to go with mainstays Kobe Bryant and Shaquille O'Neal, giving the Lakers all-stars at four starting positions. The only question, many believe, is finding enough shots to satisfy four players who have spent much of their careers being their team's primary scoring option.

But that's not the Lakers' biggest problem, says Mike Breen, who will provide play by play for ESPN's coverage of the NBA this season - which gets under way Wednesday, Oct. 29, when the New York Knicks play host to Tracy McGrady and the Orlando Magic. In July, Bryant was arrested in Colorado on sexual-assault charges. So while Bryant's future is uncertain, so is the team's, as coach Phil Jackson struggles to keep his players focused on playing while Bryant's case progresses.

"It's obvious, with Kobe, what's going to happen with them," Breen says, "because Malone, he didn't shoot as much last year, and Payton - I mean, these guys took a lot less money. They're not going to come in there and demand anything. They're not going to screw it up. They want to win a title. They know these guys have won a title without them and they can win a title without them. So I don't think that'll be a problem. I think the whole key to L.A. is what happens with Kobe and what kind of distraction it is."

If it proves to be too much, Breen thinks the Sacramento Kings have more than enough to win the Pacific Division. "And now, they add Brad Miller, who's a good pickup because (Vlade) Divac, as much as he's still kind of a leader there, he can't play like he used to. So now you've got a good guy like Miller in the middle, a younger guy who'll fit in. They picked up Anthony Peeler... who might flourish in that role off the bench. They keep finding guys like that. Last year, it was Jimmy Jackson; this year, it's Anthony Peeler. So, I think they're right back there."

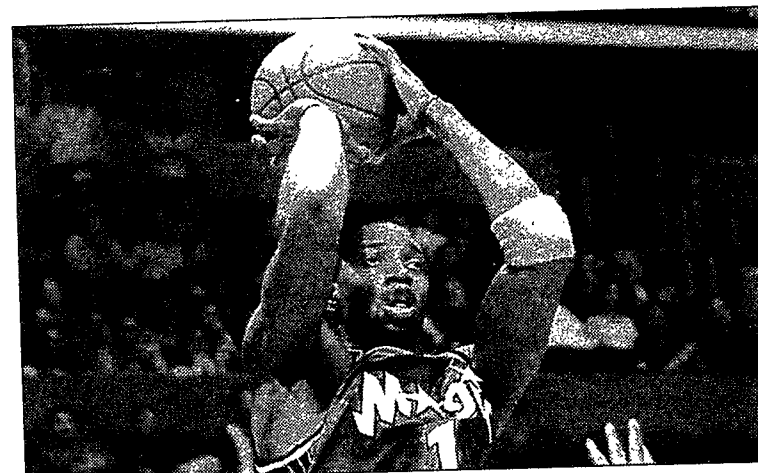

Breen looks for the defending NBA champion San Antonio Spurs to win the Midwest, despite center David Robinson's retirement. "San Antonio is still the best," Breen says. "They win the title and they get better."

"(Emanuel) Ginobili now is going to start, probably, because Stephen Jackson's gone. ... Now they have Robert Horry and Hedo Turkoglu to shoot from the perimeter to take off some pressure from (Tim) Duncan down low. You've got Ron Mercer and then (Radoslav) Nesterovic. He's not David Robinson, in terms of Robinson's career, but he's a step up from what Robinson was last year. Nesterovic can really shoot, and he was one of those improving players. ... So San Antonio got, not just a little better, I think they got a lot better, and they're going to be very difficult to beat."

In the Atlantic, Breen likes the New Jersey Nets, the defending champs in the Eastern Conference. "They're still the favorite," he says. "I don't think Kenyon Martin's contract stuff, is going to have any effect on them on the court. He's becoming one of the better two-way players, not just in the East, but in the league. (Alonzo) Mourning's another thing. If he's back (from kidney disease) to what he was or close to it, they're going to be very tough to beat. ... They've got it all back."

Breen believes the Indiana Pacers' talent makes them the pick in the Central. "I thought Indiana was going to go to the finals last year," he says. "That team has so much talent, and even though they lost Brad Miller, they're so good. (Ron) Artest, obviously, has to remain under control. I think the coaching change will benefit them. I'm not saying (Rick) Carlisle's better than (Isiah) Thomas, but Carlisle will be more consistent. Jermaine O'Neal is a legitimate star now, and Ron Artest, I think, in his own role that he plays is a legitimate big-time player. But now you've got guys like Austin Croshere and Al Harrington. Scot Pollard's going to fit in with them. I think they may have as much talent as anybody in the East."

"NASCAR Winston Cup Bass pro Shops MBNA 500" Sunday, Oct. 26 (NBC, 12:30 p.m. ET): With only four races left in the Winston Cup season, each contest takes on added importance. Today, at the Atlanta Motor Speedway, defending champion Kurt Busch hopes to move up in the standings with a victory in the Bass Pro Shops MBNA 500. Busch won last year in a race shortened to 382 miles by rain, finishing ahead of Joe Nemechek, Dale Jarrett and Tony Stewart for his second-straight win and third of his four overall in 2002.

"Buffalo Bills at Kansas City Chiefs" Sunday, Oct. 26 (ESPN, 8 p.m. ET): Do you think the Buffalo Bills' special teams unit had extra meeting time this week? Most likely, since its job tonight is to hold Kansas City Chiefs return specialist Dante Hall in check. Already this season, Hall became the first player in NFL history to return a kick for a touchdown in four straight games, an added bonus to a team that - despite leading the league in scoring after Week 4 - was ranked only ninth in total offense.

"Boxing" Saturday, Nov. 1 (HBO, 9:30 p.m. ET): An intriguing night of boxing from Grand Rapids, Mich., features two title bouts, beginning with Derrick "Smoke" Gainer facing fellow featherweight champ Juan Manuel Marquez in a unification showdown. Then, undefeated WBC lightweight king Floyd Mayweather (30-0, 20 KOs) may be in for the fight of his life when he defends his title against Phillip Ndu (31-1, 30 KOs). Ndu's punching power has helped him win his last 21 bouts.

TV Trivia

James Caan ("Brian's Song") is well-known for his numerous roles as an Italian-American, but he actually is the son of a Jewish butcher.

Kiefer Sutherland ("24") was born with the tongue-tying name of Kiefer Frederick Dempsey George Rufus Sutherland.

Norm Macdonald ("A Minute With Stan Hooper") was a Canadian stand-up comedian before becoming a writer on "Roseanne."

Eliza Dushku ("Tru Calling") is a friend of Tobey Maguire, so as a favor, she read opposite him for his "Spider-Man" screen test.

Michael Douglas ("Fatal Attraction") is not a stranger to hard work, and was an employee at a gas station after he flunked out of college.

Sunday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

A day involving an intoxicated clown takes a much more serious turn for the police officers when they pursue a conscience-free killer in the new episode "Blood, Sugar, Sex, Magik." Barnes (Ernie Hudson) tries to persuade an ex-con to give up information on the killer's possible whereabouts. One of the results gives Rico (Danny Nucci) a new, higher respect of Barnes.

7 p.m. on 4-CBS
Cold Case

Lilly (Kathryn Morris) probes the murder of a police officer (guest star Cory C. Hardict) when an apparent drug addict offers fresh evidence in the new episode "The Runner." The cop had grown up in the same run-down housing project where he was killed. Other policemen don't appreciate Lilly's investigation — and let it be known to her.

8 p.m. on 19-PBS
Masterpiece Theatre

The most-filmed Sir Arthur Conan Doyle mystery gets another rendering with a 2003 version of "The Hound of the Baskervilles." Richard Roxburgh stars as master sleuth Sherlock Holmes, who is joined by his ever-loyal assistant Dr. Watson (Ian Hart) in determining if the members of the cursed Baskerville family are being eliminated by a vicious dog. Richard E. Grant ("Gosford Park") and Neve McIntosh co-star.

Ernie Hudson

9 p.m. on 6-NBC
The Lyon's Den

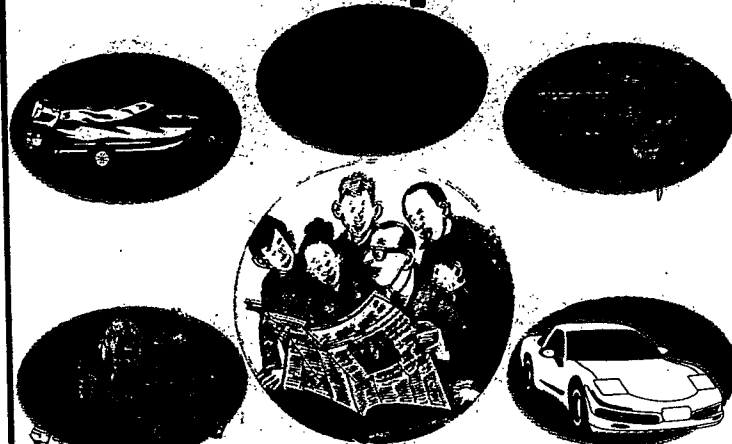

Jack (Rob Lowe) argues to let a court allow him to speak with a serial killer (guest star Steven Weber, "Wings") sentenced to be executed in the new episode "Trick or Treat." The convict supposedly has information on the death of Jack's mentor. Halloween considerations make Riley (Matt Craven) tempted to accept the opposing counsel's settlement proposal in the case of a thief (guest star Julien Cesario).

9 p.m. on DSC

America's Loch Ness Monster

Scotland has its legendary creature of Loch Ness, but Lake Champlain — situated between northern New York and Vermont — has its own alleged monster named Champ. One man's relentless search for the rumored beast is traced in this new special, profiling Dennis Hunt's quest that has lasted almost 20 years. The hour includes visual representations of what Champ is supposed to look like.

All My Children

A vengeful Mary leaked to a tabloid that Carlos was in hiding at the hospital, and was confronted by Tad, Pablo and Simone, all fearing for Carlos' safety. When Greenlee finally came to, she shocked Ryan by thinking it was 1999 and they were still a couple, and Ryan had to let her down easy. After regaining her memory, Greenlee sought out Pablo and gave him a hot kiss. Kendall and Ryan were taken aback to realize that they still have feelings for one another, and launched a kissing session. After Babe turned down Adam's bribe to leave town, he hired a private detective to dig into Babe's past. Jamie confronted Babe about sleeping with him, but kept their tryst a secret from an unsuspecting J.R. Coming: Bianca reveals the truth to Kendall.

As the World Turns

Jessica had Marshall arrested, intending to put Sarah on the stand when she retries him for rape. Lucy broke up with Aaron, leaving Holden guilt-ridden while Dusty confessed his part in the scheme to Aaron. This brought Dusty closer to Lily. Paul threw Jennifer out after Rose's private eye taped Jennifer asking Dusty for help in breaking up Rose and Paul.

Jen later turned up at Dusty's door. Thinking Mike was asleep, Katie told him that she didn't hurt him on purpose. Alison planned to seduce Chris when she got him alone, unaware that Chris had decided to break up with her. Coming: Paul defies James regarding his wedding plans.

Bold and Beautiful

Brooke was ecstatic when her vision of Ridge turned out to be the real thing, as Anna explained how she dragged Ridge to safety. A thankful Stephanie and Massimo reached out to Brooke, saying they were wrong about her. However, Brooke panicked when Ridge said he wants them to start a family right away. Nick planned to leave town to make things easier for Brooke, and urged her not to tell Ridge what happened between them. Sally's fury over Ozzie reopening turned emotional when she saw Oscar's tribute to Macy, and learned of his plan to immediately close the club and start the Macy Alexander Coma Research Foundation. Coming: Amber has to make new plans.

Days of Our Lives

Hope fought off her assailant, who fled, as Hope insisted to Bo that the killer is someone they know. To clear himself, Rex took a lie detector test, and John noted that he lied about the question concerning his parents, indicating that the twins may not be Tony and Marlena's. Tony stole the test results, cursed Stefano's name and then mysteriously disappeared. Meanwhile, Rex panicked at the thought of the truth about his parents coming to light and he also vanished as Cassie, Mimi and Philip pursued him. After being hypnotized by Mar-lena, Maggie had an unsettling dream and awoke to see a pair of evil eyes in the darkened room, filling her with terror. Coming: Jennifer must find a way to let go.

General Hospital

Carly fell down the stairs as she explored the house Sonny bought for her. Courtney found her and told Alcazar, as Carly went into labor. Thinking Carly was being hurt, Sonny shot Alcazar and delivered the baby, but Carly passed out and Sonny realized she has a bullet wound in her head. Emily told a bickering Nikolas and Zander not to fight over her anymore since she's going to medical school. Thinking that Dillon was being sent away to military school, Georgie almost made love to him, but Edward interrupted them. Georgia later offered to hide the cards Dillon had obtained in her room. Luke got one of the cards, which Skye stole and turned over to Jax. Coming: Luke has a moment of triumph.

Guiding Light

Shayne was able to call out to Marina, awakening her and enabling her to douse the fire. Gus and Harley launched their plan to solve the disappearance of Lori Jensen, luring the very much alive Lori to the hospital, where her co-conspirator in extortion was revealed to be Marie Green. Sandy became very tense during a family dinner with Marah, Reva and Josh, and finally fled. When Reva followed Sandy and caught him removing payroll money from Josh's safe, she stated that her feelings about him were right on target. Michelle stayed up late to see who was moving her furniture around, and encountered a ghostly woman who insulted her decorating. Coming: Marah demands an explanation for Sandy's behavior.

One Life to Live

Despite being threatened by John, Natalie won the tournament. John was revealed to be an undercover FBI agent. Flynn took Natalie hostage, intending to kill Walker and John when they delivered Natalie's ransom. Gunfire erupted at the ransom drop, after which Arthur reported to Flynn that Cristian, Walker and John are dead. Max said his good-byes as he prepared to leave Llanview. Gabrielle took Max's advice and made a step toward reconciling with Bo. Kevin ordered Elyssa to investigate the clinic to figure out if Walker really is Todd. Luna's spirit tried convincing Al to let go of Marcie and help her move on. Coming: Flynn's "victims" set a trap for him.

Soap Talk

Gaskill lives on in 'The Bold and the Beautiful'

By Candace Havens
© Zap2it

Actor Brian Gaskill has made the switch from the canceled "Port Charles" to "The Bold and the Beautiful."

As Oscar Marone, he's the black sheep of the family and a little rougher around the edges than the rest of the clan.

"He's not necessarily a bad guy, but he's not all good, either," Gaskill says. "He might seem kind of cold sometimes, but I think his heart's in the right place. To be honest, I'm not 100 percent sure who he is until I've played him a while. Brad (Bell, executive producer) keeps things pretty close. You never know where this guy might end up."

Dear Candace: Your article about the demise of daytime caught my eye. I've watched "General Hospital" for more than 30 years and I love that soap. However, over the last year, I've become bored with it.

I suspect it is because Mr. Brian Frons took over as president of ABC daytime and declared he didn't care what the fans wanted.

He took an unknown actress, paired her with an established hunk, and shoved the couple down our throats 24/7.

I can be open-minded. I've seen couples come and go, but they have no chemistry at all. Now, the male half of this couple did have chemistry with Elizabeth (Rebecca Herbst). But, Frons broke up that blossoming relationship.

"GH" has turned into "Mob Hospital." There is so much violence. Where is the love, passion, romance and adventure that used to grace my screen?

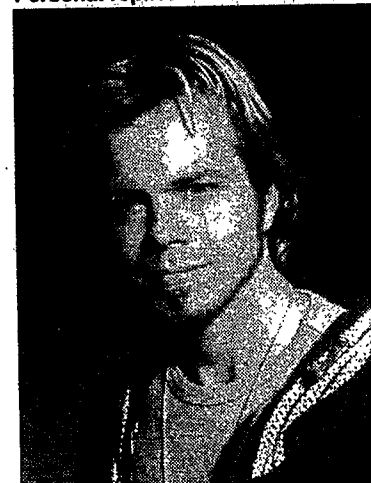

I must be out of Frons' demographics. I'm 46, married with children and own my own business. Yet, Frons has said time and time again that he wants the soap stars to be young, blond and beautiful. He even badmouthed an actress on "One Life to Live" because she didn't fit the demographics.

Oh, well, thanks for your candid report. -Judy Heustis via the Internet.

Dear Reader: Frons did make comments about the cast of "Port Charles" being young and beautiful, but he is listening to fans about the other shows. He recently reinstated Nathaniel Marston to "OLTL" because the fans pitched such a fit. So, there is hope.

The legend of Tarzan comes alive in this 1984 adaptation of Edgar Rice Bur-roughs's classic tale. Christopher Lambert stars as Tarzan, who faces more danger upon his return to civilization than he ever faced while being raised in the jungle. The film explores the perplexed title character's struggle with love and the difficulty he faces in trying to adapt to "civil" society. Ralph Richardson, Ian Holm,

James Fox and Andie MacDowell co-star.

NFL Football

Much was made of the offseason improvement of the San Diego Chargers' defense. So much for that hype machine. The Chargers began the season 0-5, thanks in large part to porous pass coverage. Their run defense hasn't been any better, which isn't good news tonight since Ricky Williams and the Miami Dolphins visit. Williams is the main cog in a Dolphins' offense that has leaned on a time-tested formula — get a

It's the Great Pumpkin, Charlie Brown

Linus stakes out a spot in the pumpkin patch hoping to catch a glimpse of the Great Pumpkin. While he continues his annual vigil, Charlie Brown discovers stones in his trick-or-treat bag, Lucy becomes maternal and Snoopy gets moonstruck. Created by Charles M. Schulz, the special features the music of Vince Guaraldi.

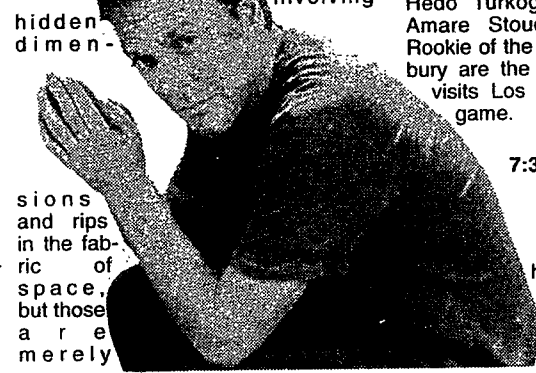

7 p.m. on 38-WB
Gilmore Girls

Lorelai's (Lauren Graham) catering of a party for Richard's (Edward Herrmann) new company nets her an unexpected romantic prospect in the new episode "An Affair to Remember." Jason (Chris Eigeman) insults Emily (Kelly Bishop) by dismissing the party, and when Lorelai complains about his behavior, he asks her out. Rory (Alexis Bledel) struggles to find a studying spot at Yale.

7 p.m. on 19-PBS
Nova

Einstein had his ideas, but there may be an even larger theory explaining absolutely everything that happens in the world. Columbia University physics and mathematics professor Brian Greene seeks that rationale in the new miniseries "The Elegant Universe."

Many of the theories sound right out of "Star Trek," involving hidden dimensions.

sions and rips in the fabric of space, but those are merely

NBA Basketball

The San Antonio Spurs unveil their revamped roster, one they hope is good enough to defend their championship, when they host the Phoenix Suns as another NBA season begins. David Robinson retired, but Tim Duncan returns in the middle, joined by newcomers Radoslav Nesterovic, Hedo Turkoglu and Robert Horry. Amare Stoudemire, last season's Rookie of the Year, and Stephon Marbury are the Suns' big guns. Dallas visits Los Angeles in the second game.

7:30 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

I'm With Her

Alex (Teri Polo) isn't happy that the director (guest star Robert Englund, "A Nightmare on Elm Street") intends to exhibit the first movie she ever made, a low-budget horror film, in the new episode "All About Evil." Patrick and Stevie (David Sutcliffe, Danny Comden) scheme to prevent the screening. Cheri (Rhea Seehorn) falls for a man she believes is posing as an itinerant for Halloween.

7:30 p.m. on 54-UPN

All of Us

Will Smith and Jada Pinkett Smith maintain this comedy series doesn't trace their relationship precisely, but it's close. Executive-produced by the couple, the show's pilot episode introduces Duane Martin as an entertainment reporter who wants to tie the knot with his girlfriend (Elise Neal, "The Hughleys") — but his ex-wife (LisaRaye), the mother of his young son (Khamani Griffin, "Daddy Day Care"), is determined to stay on his radar.

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

If you think counterterrorism agent Jack Bauer (Kiefer Sutherland) can relax after two of the most intense days anyone could live, think again. As its third season begins with the commercial-free episode "Day 3: 1:00 — 2:00 PM," the drama series maintains the format of each week's story representing one hour of the same day. Bauer again is summoned when a virus-ridden corpse sparks a search for the disease's origin.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC
According to Jim

There's a lot that Dana (Kimberly Williams-Paisley) doesn't like about Jim (Jim Belushi), but she fails to see the same qualities in her latest romantic interest (guest star James McCauley) in the new episode "Dana Dates Jim." Jim has great fun watching Dana suddenly make allowances for the same sort of behavior she always has despised in him.

Wednesday Best Bets

Ed

A former student-turned-noted-writer (guest star Jonathan Togo) invites Carol (Julie Bowen) to meet with a magazine editor in New York in this new episode. Ed (Tom Cavanagh) decides to join her. Dr. Jerome (Martin Chaitinover) has his aspiring-doctor granddaughter (guest star Melissa Miller) put through medical paces by Mike (Josh Randall). A freshman (guest star Noah Fleiss) proves popular with nerds as well as the school's "in" crowd.

7 p.m. on 19-PBS

Great Performances

One of the greatest U.S. orchestras has a new home, and the musicians move into it in the new special "The Los Angeles Philharmonic Inaugurates Walt Disney Concert Hall." Famous friends such as Tom Hanks, Steven Spielberg, Catherine Zeta-Jones, Yo-Yo Ma, Audra McDonald and Josh Groban join in the orchestra's celebration. Music selections include works by Stravinsky, Haydn and Ives, and a new piece by John Williams.

7 p.m. on 54-UPN

Star Trek: Enterprise

Archer, Reed and Major Hayes (Scott Bakula, Dominic Keating, Steven Culp) make their way into a plant that processes explosives necessary for a Xindi weapon to function in the new episode "The Shipment." They capture the site's foreman (guest star John Cothran Jr.), who agrees to help Archer after learning of the weapon's planned use in an assault on Earth.

7:30 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

A Minute With Stan Hooper

Norm Macdonald has to adjust to playing someone who isn't named Norm as his latest sitcom debuts. This time, he's Stan, a television commentator who fears he's out of touch with the Midwest about which he regularly talks. He and his wife (Penelope Ann Miller) move from New York to a Wisconsin town, where they have a butler (Brian Howe) as well as a guest (Eric Lively), the rebellious son of a cheese mogul (Fred Willard).

7:30 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

It's All Relative

Halloween brings surprises to Mace and Philip (Lenny Clarke, John Benjamin Hickey) in the new episode "The Doctor Is Out." In need of medical attention, Mace discovers that the person who treats him (guest star Neal Lerner) is gay. Philip's shock comes from a party planner (guest star Victor Garber, "Alias") he has known for ages. Liz (Maggie Lawson) tires of being called "cute."

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

The O.C.

A crisis picks up right where it left off, as the drama series resumes with the new episode "The Rescue." Marissa's (Mischa Barton) life hangs in the balance after the overdose she took. Ryan (Benjamin McKenzie) maintains a vigil at the hospital. Kirsten (Kelly Rowan) is concerned about how close Sandy (Peter Gallagher) appears to be getting to Rachel (guest star Bonnie Somerville, "In-Laws").

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

The West Wing

After being showcased favorably in a newspaper article, Josh (Bradley Whitford) faces off with a senator (guest star Tom Skerritt, "Picket Fences") who wants his state to house a pricey yet flawed missile launcher in the new episode "Constituency of One." The new vice president (guest star Gary Cole) makes Will (Joshua Malina) an offer. C.J. and Leo (Allison Janney, John Spencer) clash over the wording of an energy report.

8 p.m. on 54-UPN

Jake's (Christopher Gorham) assignment involving a dangerous domestic terrorist coincides with a visit from Jake's younger brother, Jerry (guest star Drew Tyler Bell), in the new episode "Jerry 2.0." Knowing Jake is on his trail, the militant sends henchmen to kidnap him, but they unwittingly abduct Jerry.

8:30 p.m. on 19-PBS

American Masters

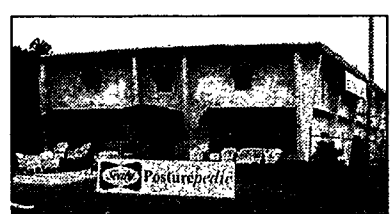

Long deemed "the hardest-working man in show business," a music icon is saluted in the new episode "James Brown: Soul Survivor." Also slated to receive the Kennedy Center Honors in December, Brown established his powerful presence and fancy dance moves through hits such as "I Got You (I Feel Good)" and "Papa's Got a Brand New Bag." Poverty and prison also have been elements of Brown's life, which has spanned 70 years so far.

Christina Applegate ("Married ... With Children") reprises the role that earned her an Emmy Award in the new episode "The One Where Rachel's Sister Babysits." Rachel (Jennifer Aniston) decides her sibling Amy (guest star Applegate) would benefit from minding baby Emma for a while — but Ross (David Schwimmer) disagrees.

Movie: Carrie

Originally filmed in 1976, the Stephen King horror novel again is dramatized in this 2002 version, incorporating scenes not included in the first movie. Angela Bettis (Broadway's "The Crucible") stars as the telekinetic teen who uses her mind power against cruel high-school peers. Patricia Clarkson ("Six Feet Under"), David Keith, Rena Sofer and Emilie de Ravin ("Roswell") co-star.

Movie: Blade

Wesley Snipes stayed in the adventure market with this 1998 combination of martial-arts action and the supernatural, based on Marvel Comics characters. Blade is half-man and half-vampire, a trait that comes in handy as he stalks a member of the undead (Stephen Dorff) who has sinister intentions for all of humanity. Kris Kristofferson makes an enjoyable sidekick for Snipes.

Married to the Kellys

Tom (Breckin Meyer) brings trouble home after he makes a new pal (guest star Eddie McClintock, "Friends") in the new episode "Tom Makes a Friend." The man's wife (guest star Tracy Metro) is someone Susan (Kiele Sanchez) detested when the women were in high school — making things tough at best when the two couples get together.

Boston Public

A suspended student gets ammunition for revenge when he learns of the romance between Harper and Marilyn (Chi McBride, Sharon Leal), then threatens to reveal it to the school board, in the new episode "Chapter Seventy-Two." Bixby (guest star Dennis Miller) gives Guber (Anthony Heald) advice on Violet (guest star Sherilyn Fenn, "Twin Peaks") and her active social life.

JAG

Dismissed by the CIA, Harm (David James Elliott) finds work as a crop-dusting pilot for an unusually mature teenager (guest star Hallee Hirsh, "ER") in the new episode "Back in the Saddle." Harm's JAG replacement (guest star Dana Sparks, "Falcon Crest") proves to have lied about her credentials, impacting everyone else's workload — and prompting Admiral Chegwidden (John M. Jackson) to consider bringing Harm back into the fold.

Saturday Best Bets

2:30 p.m. on 4-CBS

College Football

The World's Largest Outdoor Cocktail Party, as the annual battle between Georgia and Florida is known, has left the Bulldogs feeling hung over lately. They have lost to the Gators 12 out of the last 13 years, including last season when Georgia entered the game 8-0. The circumstances this afternoon are similar — QB David Greene and the Bulldogs are primed for another SEC title run, while the Gators hope to again play the role of spoilers.

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Movie: Phenomenon II

Originally played by John Travolta, the ordinary man suddenly gifted with an extraordinary IQ is portrayed by Christopher Shyer ("The Core") in this new sequel to the 1996 movie. With a script by Gerald Di Pego — who also wrote the original film — the follow-up finds George Malley

7 p.m. and BRAV

Movie: Close Encounters of the Third Kind

The aliens are landing, and only the government knows where — or so it thinks. Someone's dropping hints to, among others, an electric-company worker (Richard Dreyfuss), who sees a UFO and develops a strange obsession. He follows it to Wyoming and a face-to-face meeting with the visitors. Teri Garr, Melinda Dillon and Francois Truffaut also star in director Steven Spielberg's 1977 sci-fi classic.

7 p.m. on HBO

Movie: The Transporter

Delivering items becomes much more dangerous for a former Special Forces operative (Jason Statham, "The Italian Job") in this breakneck-paced 2002 adventure, which uses the Far East style of movie action. The courier violates his usual "no questions asked" credo when he finds his latest cargo is a bound and gagged woman (Qi Shu) — putting him at odds with his employer and the "package's" intended recipient.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

Hack

Kelli Williams ("The Practice") guest stars as an amnesiac pursued by a hired killer in the new episode "My Fare Lady." The woman turns out to be one of Philadelphia's more privileged residents, and once the assassin mistakenly targets her sister, her recollections come flooding back — convincing Olshansky (David Morse) that she led a secret life. Jamie (Matt Czuchry) poses as Marcellus (Andre Braugher) to win a girl's heart.

8:30 p.m. on HBO

Boxing

An intriguing night of boxing from Grand Rapids, Mich., features two title bouts, beginning with Derrick "Smoke" Gainer facing fellow featherweight champ Juan Manuel Marquez in a unification showdown. Then, undefeated WBC lightweight king Floyd Mayweather (30-0, 20 KOs) may be in for the fight of his life when he defends his title against Phillip Ndou (31-1, 30 KOs). Ndou's punching power has helped him win his last 21 bouts.

L.A. Dragnet

Detective McCarron (Desmond Harrington) finds clues that link seemingly random murders in the new episode "Frame of Mind." The slaying of a traveling salesman turns out to have a connection to the killing of a porn actress's (guest star Sarah Joy Brown, "General Hospital") father. Doug McKeon ("On Golden Pond") also guest stars.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

The District

The clues yielded by a homicide cause Mannion (Craig T. Nelson) to fear that a long-unsolved serial murder case has been revived in the new episode "Jupiter for Sale." The detective (guest star John Savage, "The Deer Hunter") who led the original investigation returns to help solve the latest killing.

(Ratings for each film begin with a "star" rating - one star meaning "poor," four meaning "excellent" - followed by the Motion Picture Association of America rating, and then by a family-viewing guide, the key for which appears below.)

STARTING THIS WEEK (New releases):

"THE HULK": Arguably the most serious-minded adaptation of a Marvel comic book yet, director Ang Lee ("Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon") pours on the angst as he retells the saga of Bruce Banner (Eric Bana), the scientist whose experiment goes awry. As a result, everyone knows when he's mad, since he morphs into a green-skinned monster who can throw military tanks around like Frisbees. Jennifer Connelly ("A Beautiful Mind") plays the love interest. Sam Elliott, Josh Lucas and Nick Nolte also star. DVD extras: audio commentary by Lee; "making-of" documentaries; deleted scenes; "Hulk-Cam" feature, linking movie scenes to behind-the-scenes footage.  (PG-13: AS, P, V)

"WHALE RIDER": A "sleeper" hit on the independent-film circuit, director Niki Caro's moving, inspiring novel follows the quest of a Maori girl (Keisha Castle-Hughes) who challenges tradition, and her grandfather's (Rawiri Paratene) beliefs, by vying to become a tribal leader - a role typically reserved for men. She attempts to prove her worth by helping stranded whales, providing not only the film's title but its considerable, wisely used symbolism. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentary by Caro; deleted scenes; "making-of" documentaries; art gallery; storyboards.  (PG-13: AS, P)

"CITY OF GHOSTS": Matt Dillon ("There's Something About Mary") makes his debut as a director and screenwriter with this well-cast drama, in which he also stars as a con man who has a change of heart about scamming others. As he seeks his mentor (James Caan) in Cambodia, he gets ever deeper into trouble with a colorful assortment of characters. Stellan Skarsgard ("Good Will Hunting"), Natascha McElhone ("Solaris") and Gerard Depardieu co-star. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentary by Dillon and co-screenwriter Barry Gifford.  (R: AS, P, V)

"THE SOPRANOS: THE COMPLETE FOURTH SEASON": James Gandolfini and Edie Falco just won Emmys for this most recent year of the HBO drama about the underworld clan, compiled in five-tape and four-disc sets. As the stories begin, Tony Soprano (Gandolfini) tries to offset reduced profits from the family business by investing in a land deal, while his wife, Carmela (Falco), worries what will happen if the expected money doesn't materialize. Other cast members include Jamie-Lynn Sigler, Robert Iler, Dominic Chianese, Michael Imperioli, Tony Sirico, Aida Turitto and fellow Emmy-winner Joe Pantoliano. DVD extras: audio commentaries by producers and writers on selected episodes; recaps of the first three seasons; previews; cast and crew biographies.  (Not rated: AS, N, P, V)

"THE LOONEY TUNES GOLDEN COLLECTION": Heralding the release of the theatrical feature "Looney Tunes: Back in Action," this four-DVD compilation of classic cartoons offers Warner Bros. cartoon favorites such as Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck and the Road Runner in some of their best short subjects. Included are the fan favorites "Hair-Raising Hare" and "Duck Dodgers"; also available is "THE LOONEY TUNES PREMIERE COLLECTION." DVD extras: trailers; introductions by animation experts and actors; audio commentaries by film historians and filmmakers; "making-of" documentaries; isolated music tracks; stills gallery; "How to Draw Your Favorite Looney Tunes." * (Not rated)

"MARRIED ... WITH CHILDREN: THE COMPLETE FIRST SEASON": The long-running television sitcom, which rejoiced in doing a number on the usual "warm fuzzies" of family shows, serves up its first year of the misadventures of the Bundy family. Household heads Al and Peg (Ed O'Neill, Katey Sagal) keep loving each other throughout their endless bickering. Christina Applegate and David Faustino play their children, Kelly and Bud; Amanda Bearse and David Garrison co-star. DVD extra: "Married ... With Children" Reunion Special.  (Not rated)

COMING SOON (Upcoming releases):

"EIGHT CRAZY NIGHTS" (Nov. 4): The Jewish holiday Hanukkah gets the Adam Sandler treatment in this animated musical-comedy about a party-lover who seeks redemption. (PG-13: AS, P)

"FINDING NEMO" (Nov. 4): A fish searches for its missing child in this computer-animated Disney/Pixar hit featuring the voices of Albert Brooks and Ellen DeGeneres. (G)

"LEGALLY BLONDE 2: RED WHITE & BLONDE" (Nov. 4): Elle Woods (Reese Witherspoon) hits Washington, D.C., to protest the use of animals in experiments. Sally Field co-stars. (PG-13: P)

On TV

'Tru Calling' follows TV trend of going back in time

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

Whether it's post-9/11 jitters or millennial aftershocks, TV producers are fascinated by the ideas of "What if?" "If only ..." and "There but for the grace ..."

Last season saw a drama - ABC's "That Was Then" - and a comedy - The WB Network's "Do Over" - in which thirtyish men were allowed to relive their '80s adolescence.

This year is all about the girls. On Showtime's "Dead Like Me," an 18-year-old (Ellen Muth) becomes a grim reaper, taking souls while trying to reconnect with her troubled family. On CBS' "Joan of Arcadia," a high-schooler (Amber Tamblyn) talks to God, who gives her puzzling missions that have far-reaching effects on her friends and troubled family.

On Fox's upcoming "Wonderfalls" (created by Bryan Fuller, who also created "Dead Like Me"), an apathetic 20-something (Caroline Dhavernas) gets cryptic messages from talking gift-shop tchotchkes, which cause her to alter the lives of those around her (including friends and troubled family).

There seems to be a theme here.

Now, starting Thursday, Oct. 30, there's Fox's "Tru Calling," starring Eliza Dushku ("Buffy the Vampire Slayer"). She's not talking to God, as near as we can tell. Instead, she's talking to the dead, or, to be more accurate, the dead are talking to her. They want her help. They want not to be dead. Luckily for them, Tru's just the girl to ask.

After displaying some possibly psychic powers at 12 during the funeral of her mother, who was murdered in front of her, Tru wakes up as a 22-year-old college grad and discovers she has gone back one day in time. She then tries to help her self-destructive brother (Shawn Reaves), coke-sniffing sister (Jessica Collins) and the slain corpse that spoke to her during her first night as a morgue attendant.

Created by Jon Harmon Feldman ("Dawson's Creek," "American Dreams"), "Tru Calling" posits a situation with massive theological implications (but they don't really go there) and enough time-travel conundrums to give H.G. Wells a tension headache.

According to Feldman and fellow executive producer Dawn Parouse, Tru alone has this power. There was another, but that person is dead.

"There's a mythology that backs that up," Parouse says. "It's no mystery that she wound up at that morgue."

"I don't think she chose it," Dushku says, "or if she did, she doesn't know it."

The producers also acknowledge the effect of recent events. "Look," says Feldman, "9/11 is part of the collective consciousness right now of our country. 'If you could do things differently ...' You can't help but access that in the writing at this subconscious level. Why is the sense of changing things in the air? That's probably a real good reason."

"When you say 9/11," Parouse adds, "I thought it was real important for her to just be your average 22-year-old girl, because everybody did feel that. 'What if I could have done something? If only ...'"

While 9/11 may be partly responsible for some current shows, the idea of changing history is as old as storytelling, and is a TV staple.

From 1996 to 2000, Kyle Chandler starred in "Early Edition" as a stockbroker given the next day's Chicago Sun-Times so he could change the headlines (a job he inherited, along with a cat, when the previous recipient died).

Even earlier, from 1989 to 1993, "Quantum Leap" starred Scott Bakula as a scientist thrown into the bodies of people at different points in history. He was then stuck there until he "put things right that once went wrong" to the satisfaction of a seemingly omniscient computer, Ziggy.

These shows throw a monkey wrench into the idea of absolute predestination, since someone wants to undo something that's already happened, but wasn't meant to.

"Absolutely," Parouse concurs, "and maybe there's someone to right the wrong."

"And if there's someone to right the wrong," Feldman continues, "what we're going to explore in this series is, if there's someone there to prevent death, maybe there's someone there to ensure death. That's something we're going to go through as well."

"And maybe he's going to be a hot 22-year-old guy," Parouse says.

Unfortunately for Tru, she doesn't have the Almighty making cameo appearances, nor talking wax lions, nor a newspaper with constantly shifting headlines, nor Ziggy. She has only her own wits.
